'GOOD FORM' SAYS GROMYKO

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—After President Kennedy's speech to the United Nations General Assembly today, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko shook hands with him and declared: "You were in good form."

Gromyko appeared in high spirits.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD:

CUSTODIAN OF THE PEACE

(The story of Dag Hammarskjold, who died tragically a week ago, is very much the story of the cold war in recent years. Today The Times begins a series on the life and times of this world figure, based on a book by Joseph Lash, a veteran journalist, which has been released in advance following Hammarskjold's death. It will continue daily.)

By JOSEPH P. LASH

In the spacious, rose-carpeted office that houses the U.S. Secretary of State, the telephone rang. It was the end of March, 1953, and John Foster Dulles, its new occupant was conferring with H. Freeman "Doc" Matthews, acting deputy undersecretary and formerly in charge of the European desk, and Paul H. Nitze, head of the Policy Planning Committee but about to leave the Government.

Dulles listened, put down the receiver and turned to the two men: "That's Cabot Lodge. He tells me they have suggested a fellow by the name of Hammarskjold and Vishinsky has accepted."

"If you can get him, grab him," Doc Matthews commented.

Nitze recalled having dealt with Hammarskjold in 1946 when the Swedish-U.S. trade agreement was re-negotiated at Sweden's request.

Sweden had run into a foreign exchange crisis and needed relief. He had never seen a better organized collection of data or a more excellent presentation of a complex problem, Nitze told Dulles.

Dulles' mystification at the name of Hammarskjold did not exceed that of his delegation in New York when French Representative Henri Hoppenot first brought up the name and said Vishinsky had indicated he was acceptable.

Lodge moved fast. A decision had to be taken so promptly he did not have an opportunity to meet with the Latin-American group, as he later explained to complaining diplomats from that group.

Lie's Boldness Upset, U.K., France

These qualities, while they left some questions among the Americans, were precisely the ones that recommended Hammarskjold to his British and French sponsors. They had not been enthusiasts of the bold political initiatives taken by Trygve Lie.

They wanted to get back to the tradition established by Sir Eric Drummond at the League of Nations: High level administration, be it of the scenes conciliation, no speaking out in public on behalf of an international point of view.

While the UN charter, unlike the League's, specifically conferred on the secretary-general the right to take his own initiative in matters threatening peace and security, Britain and France would have preferred more restraint on Lie's part in asserting a political role.

"I wasn't happy with the British on several occasions," Lie later commented. "They were very much disappointed with me. Palestine, Persian oil, to mention just two examples, and I could mention more." The French had "made some difficulties" because of the impact of his blunt-spoken anti-colonialism on French Africa, and also "they didn't like me because I didn't speak French."

Hammarskjold's name was put forward by the French and seconded by the British. There is some suggestion the proposal originated with the British, and that Sir Anthony Eden, who was then foreign secretary, had a hand in it.

But the British asked the French to take the lead because they were committed to Lester "Mike" Pearson of Canada. He was already out of humor with his British colleagues because he felt that by rushing a vote on his candidacy they had precipitated a Soviet veto.

'Slow Negotiation' Beats Quick War—K

BONN (AP)—Premier Khrushchev removed the end-of-the-year deadline for a treaty with East Germany in his talks with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, diplomatic sources reported today.

"Khrushchev was reported to have told Spaak that the Soviet Union prefers slow negotiations to a quick war," these sources said.

Spaak reported to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last Thursday on his five-hour talks with Khrushchev in Moscow on the previous Tuesday.

Khrushchev was said to have told Spaak he never had committed himself to signing a peace treaty with East Germany before the end of this year.

EXPRESS SURPRISE

German officials expressed surprise at this. On several occasions, Khrushchev has declared that he will sign a treaty with East Germany before the end of the year, turning over control of access to West Berlin to the East German Communist regime unless the West agrees to a German peace on his terms.

Diplomats said they understood the Spaak report to mean that Khrushchev now proposes to delay signing an East German peace treaty if negotiations are under way by the end of the year.

Khrushchev also was reported to have told Spaak he was ready to discuss with the Western powers other subjects beside Berlin and Germany.

WERE NOT OPTIMISTIC

One West German official said Khrushchev's line in talks with Spaak, a former secretary-general of NATO, was "most conciliatory." West German officials were not optimistic, however, despite Spaak's report.

"We heard the message," said one, "but we don't believe it. He has taken on the face of a mild and compromising person for this occasion."

Diplomats said that despite Khrushchev's relatively mild attitude, he remained firm against including the status of East Berlin in any East-West negotiations. He took the line that East Berlin is the capital of East Germany and cannot be discussed.

HUNTERS' PLANE FLIPS IN LAKE; ONE DEAD

VANCOUVER (CP)—One man was killed and another battled his way to safety during the weekend when a light seaplane crashed into Dorothy Lake, 140 miles north of here.

Killed was owner-pilot Melvin Curran of Vancouver. His plane, loaded with meat after a hunting trip, overturned when Curran attempted to take off on the Cariboo district lake Saturday.

Everett Abbey, also of Vancouver, fought clear of the wreckage and swam to shore. He suffered minor injuries and was flown here Sunday aboard a B.C. Airlines plane.

Both men were Canadian Pacific Airlines pilots.

Auto Crash In Cariboo Kills Three

100-MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)—Three persons died when a car wrapped itself around a power pole 1½ miles north of this Cariboo community early Sunday.

Three passengers were killed outright. The driver and a male passenger were in critical condition in Williams Lake, B.C., hospital today and a teenage girl was in fair condition with head injuries in Ashcroft Hospital.

Dead are Ardith Lindsay, 21, of Lac la Hache, B.C.; Juanita Capnerhurst, 16, Williams Lake, and Kenneth Clark, 28, of Fredericton, N.B.

Police said the car swerved out of control on a gradual curve, skidded across Highway 97, jumped a ditch and smashed into the pole, bringing down a 60,000-volt line. Electrical service here was out more than four hours before workmen repaired the break.

HOLDS JOB

DECISION to reappoint Donald Gordon as head of the publicly-owned CNR has been reached by the federal government, it was reported in Ottawa today. A government source said the decision had been reached over objections of parliamentary criticism but with the approval of railway union chiefs. Appointment will be for a three-year term at a salary of $75,000 a year.

CANADA STAND ON A-ARMS SUPPORTED

OTTAWA (CP)—One point in President Kennedy's disarmament proposals, presented today to the United Nations, indicates anew that there will be no Canadian decision on acquisition of nuclear weapons at least until the UN General Assembly has discussed disarmament.

The point: "Prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not now own them."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Sept. 20 that the Canadian government doesn't wish any decision it may take on nuclear arms "to impede in any way any substantial progress which may be possible in disarmament or limitation on the spread of nuclear weapons to the independent control of countries not already having them."

Canada was consulted on and approved President Kennedy's disarmament proposals.

Whites Fear Invasion; Flee Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—White refugees continued to stream out of Elisabethville today as fears mounted that the Congolese central government was planning to invade Katanga.

Widespread reports here say invasion plans were well under way following the United Nations' failure to end Katanga's secession after an eight-day battle that ended in a cease-fire last Wednesday.

More than 350 persons—most of them Belgian families—got out of Elisabethville Sunday, crossing the border into Northern Rhodesia in cars piled high with family possessions.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has sent 80 more military personnel to the Congo to assist the United Nations force there, Defence Minister Harkness announced today in the Commons.

This brings the total Canadian contingent to 359. Parliament authorized a total of up to 500.

The new personnel will be air and ground crew for two C-119 Flying Boxcar transport planes from Downsview, Ont., and 12 additional technicians. The two planes left Sunday for the Congo.

'Must Reject Threat of Force'

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—President Kennedy told the United Nations today the United States has "both the will and the weapons" to resist aggression and challenged the Communist world to drop the arms race in favor of a "peace race."

The president, in an address alternately tough and conciliatory, told the Soviet Union the U.S. believes a peaceful agreement is possible for the world crisis over divided Berlin. But he added that threat of force must be rejected, because "yielding to threats can only lead to war."

The president's address covered the broad spectrum of crises confronting a frightened world. He proposed a six-point disarmament plan and called for the creation of a UN peace force.

Kennedy urged the small nations to rally behind the UN and defeat Soviet efforts to impose a "troika" system of three-man control over its police power.

The troika, he said, would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis and confidence with gross confusion."

The president told the 99-nation General Assembly, in a speech carried live by radio and television, that the UN's life is at stake in the issue raised by the death in Africa of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. He urged new strength and new roles for the UN.

The Soviet delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, listened impassively as Kennedy spoke. It did not join in the applause that dotted the speech. The first came when Kennedy attacked the Soviet troika plan.

Watching the president was his wife, Jacqueline, who sat with white-gloved hands folded across her lap.

The blue-and-gold assembly hall was packed to capacity. There were standees in the public gallery.

He proposed an approach to disarmament which would be both far-reaching and realistic: "It is therefore our intention to challenge the Soviet Union not to an arms race but to a peace race—to advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has actually been achieved."

Troika Plan Would Create Anarchy

Of the Russian plan, he said: "To install a triumvirate or any panel or rotating authority in the United Nations administrative offices would replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis, and confidence with gross confusion."

Kennedy touched on world trouble spots and solutions to the causes of cold war conflict in his first appearance before the general assembly.

In his prepared text he was most specific about halting the spread of atomic weapons. He said the new U.S. disarmament program, which may be set forth in detail in 24 hours, would include a proposal for all nations to sign a nuclear test ban treaty.

"Test-ban negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks," Kennedy said to counter Soviet insistence that discussion of a nuclear treaty be wrapped into overall disarmament negotiations.

Kennedy advocated a special UN power to keep the peace throughout the world. He recommended that all member nations earmark special peacekeeping units in their armed forces to be on call to prevent aggression.

He pointed to threats to peace in Laos and in Germany. "For the first time he personally emphasized in connection with a Soviet-East German pact that 'the Western Allies are not concerned with any paper arrangement the Soviets wish to make with a regime of their own creation, on territory occupied by their own troops and governed by their own agents.'"

ARMS PLAN HIGHLIGHTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The six steps outlined by President Kennedy in the U.S. "new disarmament proposals" are as follows:

"First, signing the test-ban treaty, by all nations. This can be done now. Test-ban negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks."

"Second, stopping the production of fissionable materials for use in weapons, and preventing their transfer to any nation now lacking nuclear weapons."

"Third, prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not now own them."

"Fourth, keeping nuclear weapons from seeding new battle grounds in... space."

"Fifth, gradually destroying existing nuclear weapons and converting their materials to peaceful uses; and,

"Finally, halting the unlimited testing and production of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles, and gradually destroying them as well."

after the war in the European negotiations, established the Office for European Economic Co-operation.

As the head of the Swedish delegation in very complicated transactions—he had acquired a reputation among professional diplomats for fairness, resourcefulness in devising compromises, a razor sharp mind. (The comment of Hugh Gaitskell), unflinching intellectual energy and a physical constitution to match.

Soviet calculations in accepting Hammarskjöld were more obscure. They knew a good deal about him. The previous year the Russians had shot down two Swedish planes over the Baltic. The Swedish Foreign Minister, Olof Palme, was on holiday in Italy, and Hammarskjöld, the No. 2 man in the Foreign Office, directed the angry exchange of notes that followed the incidents. "So I was very much in their books," he commented later.

The Russians, after Trygve Lie, also favored a weak Secretary-General. In 1946 Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko had been the chief advocate of liberally construing the charter provisions regarding the secretary-general's functions and powers. But this was a short-lived liberalism.

Dr. Alexander Rudzinski, who was legal adviser to the Polish in 1946, and who subsequently accepted asylum in the U.S., wrote that after the Korean invasion and Lie's part in organizing UN resistance to the Communist attack, "the Soviet Union, misled by Mr. Lie's intervention in the Iranian affair, favored granting him broad political powers and regrets now its mistake." They organized an all-out attack against Lie, culminating in a veto in 1950 of his re-election when his term of office expired.

Vishinsky denied Korea was the reason. Instead he argued that Lie was a "Lackey" of the State Department, that he had agreed to the establishment of "illegal organs" that he was hanging onto the job because "it is quite nice to receive $25,000 a year forever, with another $25,000 thrown in"—actually it is $20,000 and $20,000 tax-free—and when the Assembly extended Lie's term to 1953, he announced: "He is unobjective, two-faced; we will have no truck with him."

But by the spring of 1953, new winds were blowing from Moscow. Stalin had died. "Foreign Minister" Vishinsky, after paying tearful tribute to "The Great Stalin" in the political committee, had journeyed to Moscow and returned "Delegate" Vishin-sky, a mellower Bolshevik, kjold and that the meeting charged with advancing the peace offensive launched by the new men in Moscow.

A stalemate UN did not fit Moscow's effort to defuse the international situation while Stalin's heirs struggled with the issue of the succession. The day Vishinsky accepted Hammarskjöld, Red China's Foreign Minister Chou En-lai removed the final roadblock to an armistice in Korea by announcing acceptance of the principle that no force should be used to bring about repatriation of Korea prisoners of war.

The change in Moscow's policy may explain why Trygve Lie took Hammarskjöld's selection with such ill grace, emerging, in fact, as the bitterest behind-the-scenes opponent of the decision.

Candidates, official and unofficial, ranging from Pearson to Krishna Menon of India, had not been able to muster the necessary vote.

It was understandable that Lie, looking for vindication, would hope that in the end the council would return to him—hopes that were given added impetus with the change in Moscow's leadership and policies. He turned white when Lodge came in on March 31, his way down to the Security Council meeting, to say it was all fixed for Hammarssky, a mellower Bolshevik, kjold and that the meeting charged with advancing the peace offensive launched by the new men in Moscow.

His disappointment vented itself in uncharitable references to Hammarskjöld, most of them, designed to suggest that the Big Powers had been able to agree on the Swedish diplomat because nothing in the record of this civil service aristocrat indicated he would take any risks in defence of the charter.

His feelings were reflected in his book a year later, "In the Cause of Peace." Recalling that he had warned Hammarskjöld: "The task of the Secretary-General is the most impossible job on earth," he observed: "Any Secretary-General will find it so if he tries to be the kind of officer that I think the San Francisco charter envisaged."

"Should his conception be the same as mine, he will find it impossible to avoid the displeasure of one or more of the greater or smaller states during the years to come."

"He will be the target of criticism from right, left, and centre . . . just as the Secretary-General is the servant of the UN and not of any single nation, so he is obligated to risk himself in the interest of a just solution."

Dief Bluntly Warns Canada On Holocaust

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister has done some plain talking of the kind calculated to shake people out of apathy toward survival planning.

Mr. Diefenbaker has revealed for the first time official estimates that 2,000,000 to 6,000,000 of Canada's 18,000,000 people would be casualties in any one series of nuclear attacks. The prime minister could be one of them.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons Saturday that in any nuclear attack he, his wife and his staff will go into an ordinary fallout shelter being built in the basement of his residence at 24 Sussex Street, a mile from the Parliament Buildings.

It is not a blast-proof shelter, he said. It is the kind of shelter being recommended by the government for any house in Canada except that this one is a bit larger to accommodate staff.

"That is where I shall be when and if war should come," he said. "That is where I shall stay."

He did mention, however, that protection has been provided for cabinet ministers, senior civil servants and others "needful to maintain the organization of the country" in order to ensure continuance of government.

No Protection From Direct Blast

He did not elaborate on this point. Location of that shelter is secret but there has been published speculation about existence of an underground government control centre somewhere west of Ottawa, probably around Carp, Ont.

What would the Sussex Street shelter protect against?

Certainly not a direct hit or anything like a direct hit, Mr. Diefenbaker said. For that, one would need a shelter 1,000 feet below the ground in rock.

The object was to guard against fallout and the after-effects of radiation. There was a great need—and a difficult chore—of educating people to this fact.

Mr. Diefenbaker went on talking in simple terms about survival—about the fabulous cost of building public shelters, about the priority of home shelters over shelters in schools.

For the 60 MPs in the House, all other Commons business appeared to pale into insignificance. In the last 90 minutes of the Saturday sitting they breezed through a long list of government spending estimates with a minimum of debate.

The speed prompted the government's House leader, Veterans Minister Churchill—whose own departmental estimates went through in about a half-hour—to speculate that Parliament, now working on the longest session in history, may be prorogued Tuesday night.

APATHETIC TO CD, SAYS M.P.

'Women Are Defeatist'

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was told Saturday it has to do something to shake many Canadian women out of their apathy toward survival planning.

Douglas Jung (PC—Vancouver Centre) said there is a growing awareness among men about the need to learn something about survival in nuclear war but some women have a defeatist attitude.

"Perhaps women see no security for their families," he said in the Commons. Possibly they viewed war in a different light than men. Everyone would understand the horror women "particularly" have about such war.

Ministers Studying British ECM Bid

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Foreign ministers of the European Common Market assembled here today to take the first steps on Britain's application to join the six-nation community.

The main problem facing market foreign ministers was whether or not Britain should be required to show her hand before negotiations and state the exact safeguards she will require for the Commonwealth and British agriculture. Discussions on the application for British entry start on Tuesday.

Informants said all the six countries—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—agreed on wanting to know the conditions on which Britain will join but they differed on how to ask for.

Most of the six were said to be satisfied if Britain put forward her conditions after the opening of talks but France was said to be insisting that Britain state her precise conditions beforehand.

Famed Baritone Dies
ROME (CP)—Carlo Galeffi, 77, for 30 years one of the world's most famous operatic baritones, died in a Rome hospital.

He criticized the present fall-out shelter program as being based on ability to pay.

The government should stress that everyone has a duty to survive, said Mr. Jung, who is married.

If there was to be nuclear war, it was essential to prepare for it. Once Canadians admitted the danger of it they could devote themselves to planning "instead of wringing their hands in despair."

New Democratic Party MP Walter Pitman said many Canadians think there is an excess of concern for government people and other higher-ups in survival plans of the Emergency Measures Organization.

The Peterborough MP told the Commons there is a widespread belief that these plans are more concerned with protecting the "upper levels" than the ordinary people.

Mr. Pitman was speaking during debate on spending estimates of the privy council.

West Germans Fear 'Sellout'

(Times News Services)

BONN—West German newspapers expressed their "shock" and "surprise" in big banner headlines today over a remark by Gen. Lucius Clay that West Germany should accept the "reality" of a divided Germany.

"Is Germany now being sold out?" asked the mass circulation Bild Zeitung in a headline two inches high, echoing the sentiments expressed Sunday by West Berlin's biggest independent newspaper, Morgenpost.

The press furor continued despite assurances by West German President Heinrich Lübke that Clay, President Kennedy's representative in West Berlin, would not sell out German interests.

Lübke told a crowd at a ceremony Sunday in West Berlin that Clay had defended Berlin as American commandant during the 1948 airlift and he is with us again today with a similar determination. Clay made his remarks about the "reality" of the two Germanies at a reception Friday night. He was reported to have thought he was speaking confidentially but his remarks were published throughout the world, attributed to a high American source. The source later was identified as Clay.

Clay told reporters Saturday night that his remarks did not mean any change in American determination to press for the reunification of Germany.

Clay said in his remarks Friday that West Germany would have a better chance of achieving reunification if it was willing to confer with the East Germans instead of ignoring them.

He also said "there may be some form of dealings necessary with East Germany" in connection with the Western access rights to West Berlin if the Soviet Union signs a separate peace treaty with the East Germans as Russia has declared it plans to do.

However, Clay said, the East Germans would not be given any rights to interfere with allied air traffic into West Berlin.

Two Seattle Mountaineers Die in Fall
SEATTLE (AP)—A young mother and an engineer, members of a climbing party, plunged 300 feet to their deaths Saturday on a Cascade Mountain peak just north of Snoqualmie Pass.

The victims were Mrs. Linda Cartwright, 24, and Ed Goodman, 28, both of Seattle.

The two others in the party, Mrs. Janet H. MacDonald, 26, and Brian Marts, 18, also of Seattle, said Mrs. Cartwright had just reached the top of a vertical rock chimney with Goodman behind her when a rock she stepped on apparently gave way. Both plummeted to a ledge near the bottom.

Seattle mountain rescue council members and Explorer Scouts brought out the bodies. The peak where they fell is about 50 miles east of here.

Young Canadians in Red Cross contributed more than $146,500 last year to their fund for handicapped and crippled children.

RECALLS PROMISE
Bild Zeitung pointed out that West Germany was assured when it joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that the West would press for German reunification.

"Is that treaty and all other treaties which we signed with honest intentions now to be broken?" it asked. "Is the German NATO partner no longer worth anything?"

West Berliners generally interpreted Clay's off-the-record remarks as removing all hope for the reunification of Germany in the foreseeable future, prompting Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin to comment bitterly:

"We have lost some hopes but also some illusions." By illusions the mayor meant the ability of many West Berliners to convince themselves that the concrete curtain thrown across the divided city by the Communists Aug. 13 was merely a temporary inconvenience.

SWITCH PREDICTED
British newspapers predicted a dramatic switch in U.S. policy toward Germany in shaping up despite the denials by Clay and Washington.

The Daily Mail described Clay's off-the-record remarks as a "calculated indiscretion." The paper's Washington correspondent, Bruce Ruthwell, reported President Kennedy is about ready to grant de facto recognition to East Germany.

Ruthwell said Kennedy is also believed prepared to recognize the Oder-Neisse line as East Germany's frontier, accept East Germany checking on access routes to West Berlin and possibly agree to limit nuclear weapons in central Europe.

Meanwhile, the East Germans tightened their dividing line in Berlin by completing the evacuation of more than 2,000 persons from apartment houses lining the border. These houses have provided escape routes.

The flight of refugees to the West continued, however. Twenty East Berliners succeeded in crossing the border Sunday.

Red China and the UN

THE STEERING COMMITTEE of the United Nations has taken an inevitable step in approving full assembly discussion of Red China's possible admission to the world body.

Such a measure could not be escaped once the growing number of small, new nations had reduced the weight of United States opposition to such a discussion. The American spokesmen, with the understanding of Western allies, have modified their position and agreed to a debate.

This does not imply any softening of the United States' attitude toward efforts to seat Red China. Nor does it indicate an early entry into the world organization by the Peking administration.

The Americans have changed tactics, not principles.

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking for Canada—which is not a member of the steering committee—attributes the change "to the desire of a steadily growing number of member states for a full consideration and examination of the substance of this problem (Red China's admission)."

"The Canadian government," he adds, "regards this matter as an important one which is not susceptible, however, to hasty solution." The Prime Minister should expect no criticism from the Opposition on that statement. The Liberal Party made its policy clear some time ago—a policy which "would no longer oppose consideration of the question at the UN."

In practical terms, it appears that Red China must eventually become a member of the United Nations if the United Nations continues to function. An administration which controls roughly a quarter of the world's population cannot be excluded from the agency concerned with the problems of all the people in the world.

There are, however, specific issues which must be settled before Red China can be accepted honorably. It is the country which fired guns in anger at United Nations forces in Korea. It is the country whose aggressions in Tibet, and other parts of the Far East, including the Indian border, have repudiated the United Nations' ideal of peace.

These assertions of force to settle international issues are directly at variance with the ideals of the UN in all but its policing activities. The accused facing a charge of robbery with violence must show some inclination toward reformation before he is invited to become a peace officer.

Nor does the difficulty of admission end there. The United States is bound by commitments to the Nationalists on Formosa. Those commitments are recognized by America's allies and they can be breached only at the expense of incalculable consequences. Where, uncommitted nations friendly to the West might ask, would they be if pledges given to the Nationalist Chinese were not honored?

Mr. Diefenbaker voices justifiable caution when he reminds Canadians that the issue is one not susceptible to hasty solution.

The complexities of the question are obvious. They no doubt will be spelled out in the discussion scheduled in the assembly—and from that discussion greater understanding should be conveyed to all peoples, Canadians among them.

Grounds for Indian Ill-Will

AUTHOR-NATURALIST ROD-erick Haig-Brown, who as a country magistrate sees the problem at first hand, has delivered another blow against the British Columbia liquor law which discriminates against the Indian.

He sees in the legislation the cause of deep ill-will and suspicion on the part of the native against white society.

This is no shallow observation. Whatever the purpose of the legislation—and many supporters argue that the law is on the books to protect the Indian from the injurious effects of alcohol—the result is completely unsatisfactory.

In the first place, there is something essentially fatuous in denying an Indian liquor when his brother, merely by becoming enfranchised, is given the same access to alcohol as any white person. The legal change in status can scarcely be expected to increase the Indian's physical tolerance.

Furthermore, Indians who intend to drink will drink, despite the law. If they can afford to pay the exorbitant prices inflicted on them by bootleggers, they can buy illegally the brands denied them under the law. If they cannot, they can concoct, also illegally, other brews which are patently detrimental to their health.

As long as an Indian can be thrown into jail for acquisition of liquor which is quite legal to white people, or to enfranchised Indians, how can the native honestly believe that he is not a second-class citizen?

Mr. Haig-Brown points to the remedy. British Columbia can remove the discrimination by amending its liquor act under provision for such a change granted in the Indian Act. Or the federal government could change the act along lines suggested by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

One way or the other, the discrimination should be removed.

Mr. Williston Looks for Allies

THE SIEGE ACTION WHICH Mr. Bennett has been waging against the federal government has now been given a termination date. Justice Minister Fulton reveals that the United States will wait only another five months for the governments of Canada and British Columbia to resolve their quarrel and permit the Columbia power development to proceed. Then the U.S. will look elsewhere for power.

Mr. Bennett thus has the situation clearly played before him. He has five months in which to prove his case. Then he must capitulate, compromise or see the whole plan destroyed.

Against this background it is not an uplifting thing to have Mr. Williston "relying" on support from Washington to win his battle against Ottawa. British Columbians—who, incidentally are also Canadians—will not like this enlistment of a foreign government to help the Social Credit government of this province defeat a sound policy formulated by their national government.

The lines are becoming more clearly drawn. Is it going to be B.C. Social Crediters and Americans versus Canadians? If so, the people of this province should have little difficulty in choosing sides.

You Get Used to It

A KELOWNA-ORCHARDIST has put into words one of the unfortunate trends of our times.

He uses an automatic "cannon" whose regular explosions scare away birds raiding his orchard. But while the booms are effective against the feathered folk, they are also causing annoyance to neighbors. They want the orchardist to stop.

He contends that the explosions won't bother anyone when the people are conditioned to them. He and his wife, he explains, hardly notice the bangs unless they listen purposefully for them, although the sounds are audible a mile away.

The orchardist seems to be saying, "They'll get used to it." He's probably right. And the result is nothing to cheer about.

Day after day a few people raise their voices against the breaches of good behaviour in the world, the lowering of standards, the victimization of the public, the anti-social activities of delinquents, the improprieties of some governments.

But the voice of protest has too often lost its potency. First we resent something, we protest. Gradually it comes to be accepted—we get used to it. The voice of protest, indignation and rightful opposition sinks to a whisper.

When the public can accept as casually as it does the highway toll from automobile accidents, there seems every possibility that an orchardist's cannon will blast away unnoticed, once the neighbors are "conditioned."

Should there be an outcry against vice, crime and governmental sins against democracy? Perhaps. But humanity seems pretty adjustable, too adjustable. It can, and frequently does, become adjusted to actions it should never permit.

European Pot-Pourri

Former Times cartoonist Sid Barron is currently studying overseas. The following dispatch is from Colchester, England.

By SID BARRON

FUNNY how, after more than two months in Europe and England, one's mind becomes a ball of colored wool, with the odd remembered items sticking out like knitting needles. One sees and experiences too much. Everything is different, from the loud purple morning glory in Spain to the "white" coffee in London. The speed of Spanish morning glory runners may be less than the B.C. average of 35 feet per day, but for sheer beauty the Spanish variety is miles ahead. Saying "white" coffee is easier than "coffee with cream," but the cream is milk, boiled milk, and a cup of coffee with boiled milk will scorch lips 10 minutes after being poured.

Coffee in Paris is a powerful brew. Ordered black it's a sort of licorice treacle. Skirts in England and France are pretty, short. In Spain they are always below the knee, and girls riding in back on scooters and motorbikes always ride sideways. The Spanish are decorous. Motor scooters, motorcycles and bicycles swarm in Europe and Britain. The roads are full of them, although the increasing car population will eventually crowd them out.

Scooters and motorcycles are truly exploited. Father driving, child on his lap, wife behind, two or three children in a sidecar and luggage towed in a trailer. Quite a sight. A nun in Paris, robes streaming phantom-like, roars down Rue Bonaparte on a scooter complete with white crash helmet and two-foot bread sticks poking out of saddle bags. Visual shocks such as these, often enough, could and do, take one's mind off the world crisis altogether. Occasionally one even stops speculating on what Mr. Bennett will do next.

Not Sanitary French bread is outrageous, definitely not sanitary. It's touched by human hands, sometimes as often as 12 times before it reaches a table. Averaging two feet long, it's never wrapped. One carries it under the arm, swinging like a cane, or over the shoulder like a rifle. We found a simple way of getting it safely home was putting a child on either end and letting them chug along like a locomotive. Of course the bread could be washed before eating. Nothing could ever soften the shiny rhinoceros-hide crust.

Gendarmes in Paris are divided into two classes, moustached and non-moustached, and all fiendishly handsome, cut from the same mold. At the present time they are everywhere, several to a block. Seeing 10 of them piling out of a truck with black sub-machine guns at the ready can give one pause. Pity the civilian caught with a bag full of plastic bombs. Paris police smoke cigarettes on duty. They're a rather non-British, rakish bunch.

In Spain there are more police and soldiers than civilians. Green uniforms and shiny black tricorn hats everywhere. More rifles and machine guns than pistols. On a bus trip of 100 miles there's at least 20 "Viva Franco" signs painted on walls and outcroppings, but no religious admonitions.

The bus will be stopped at least twice at check-points while soldiers slowly walk down the aisle, searching, always searching. I never did find out what they were looking for, but was always relieved I didn't have any. Traffic police in Algiers wear white pith helmets and white tunics and look quite severe and bronzed. At the intersections of winding 12-foot-wide streets (including a suggestion of sidewalks) they wave their batons in a ridiculous mish-mash of bicycles, donkeys, arrogant pedestrians and scooters.

It's a serious business and only once did I see a traffic officer laugh and then uproariously. Two perspiring fat men in white business suits riding bicycles collided and fell to the cobble stones. This broke up the crowd completely, and they were still giggling when I left 10 minutes later. Of course, traffic tickets were issued to both bicyclists. Lucky they weren't arrested.

On Two Wheels

Evidently Holland and Denmark are the most bicycle-riden of European countries, though England must be close behind. Thousands of people ride cycles here in Colchester, even adults, although this is mild compared to Cambridge from what I hear.

Being a university town the sidewalks of Cambridge are black with bikes. Everyone owns one, and they've worked out a rather unique socialist solution to the question of ownership. One uses anyone's bicycle. Rush out of the library, grab the first bike handy, pop over to the pub, pick up a neighbor and away home. . . and so on. Presumably the cycle with the flat tire would never be used at all.

Storekeepers in Paris are a maddening crowd. Let's suppose one is a woman and wishes to buy nail polish remover. Out with the French dictionary and phrase-book, sprawl on the hotel bed and work out something, after a half hour, on the back of an envelope; something as perspiration-saturated and unwieldy as a "d'nez-moi une bouteille d'enlèvement d'encaustique de clous, s'il vous plait."

After mulling this over in the back of the mind all the way to the pharmacy, one enters the shop nervously and, standing between the two French grammar professors waiting for prescriptions, blurts out the horribly constructed request in a sheepish "Sorry, this is the best I can do; French is such a lovely language, but it's so difficult to pronounce, isn't it?" hesitant croak. The clerk, with just a trace of smugness answers in perfect English, "Large or small, madame?" Dissolve.

Incidentally, we discovered a new word in England, Toilet. None of this nonsense of bathroom or washroom or restroom. The children are enchanted with the word, and one must admit it has a nice direct quality.

The toilet paper here is a fine glossy parchment. It would be lovely for wrapping fish or butter. Oh, one could write reams on European bathroom tissue. Literally.

OVER THE TEACUPS

Alice Learns All About Power

By B. A. TOBIN

THE TROUBLE with you," said the Mad Hatter, "is that you don't think big."

"Don't think big?" put in the Dormouse smugly.

"That's not true at all," said Alice sharply. "I merely asked you a civil question—if the power is going to be so cheap why don't we use it ourselves?"

"Nonsense," said the Mad Hatter. "You miss the point entirely."

"Entirely," echoed the Dormouse. "Pass the teapot please."

"There's no tea left, I'm afraid," said Alice.

"I didn't ask for tea, I asked for the teapot," said the Dormouse, crossly.

Alice passed him the empty pot. "He's so difficult at times," she thought.

"You miss the point entirely," repeated the Mad Hatter.

"The point?" echoed the Dormouse, peering into the pot.

"It goes this way," said the Mad Hatter. "You build the dam to send water down to the other fellow, see, who builds the generators and produces electricity."

see. He pays you for half of the electricity, see, and you use this money to pay for the dam, see? It's simple."

"Simple," said the Dormouse. But he had got his head stuck in the teapot and it sounded like "Soomphle."

"But," said Alice, "how do you make any profit out of that?"

"Oh, there's profit," said the Mad Hatter airily. "There has to be."

"Why does there have to be?" asked Alice.

"Because there has to be something over to pay for the lands you've flooded building the dam," said the Mad Hatter.

"You shouldn't have done that," said the Dormouse, withdrawing his head from the pot and looking reprovingly at Alice.

"But I didn't," cried Alice. I wouldn't. Nobody would. It's completely ridie."

"Ah, ah," broke in the Mad Hatter. "Nothing is completely ridie in Wonderland."

"Right," said the Dormouse, putting his head back in the pot. (It sounded like Roompf.)

"But that's ridie," began Alice.

"No, no," the Mad Hatter interrupted again. "It's only ridie for us. It's not ridie for them."

"I dislike that word 'ridie,'" said Alice. "Why don't you say it properly."

"You used it," cried the Mad Hatter. "Yes," said Alice, "but I was trying to say 'ridie.'"

"There you go again," broke in the Dormouse. "I dislike that word 'roo-doomphuloomph.'" (He had put his head back in the pot.)

"This is getting nowhere," thought Alice.

"You can see the beauty of it," said the Mad Hatter. "The water, the power and the money, all flowing together."

"Yes," said Alice, "all flowing together downstream."

"It has to go somewhere," mumbled the Dormouse. "Has to."

"But what do WE get out of it?" asked Alice.

"Why," cried the Mad Hatter. "We're developing the country, don't you see?"

"No, I don't," said Alice. "It seems to me THEY get the power and . . ."

"WE get the glory," cried the Mad Hatter triumphantly.

"Not to speak of the drowned scream benefits," said the Dormouse.

"It seems so silly," thought Alice.

"Let's all have some tea," said the Mad Hatter, holding out his cup.

"There isn't any left for us," said Alice.

"Just like the power," muttered the Dormouse. But nobody heard him.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Things That Are Passing Away

OVER the years I have often wondered whether Dag Hammarskjöld belonged to an age that is passing or to one that is being born.

He was a bold innovator in world affairs, and he opened up a future, having carried further than it has ever been carried before the principle of international action to promote peace. Yet he was himself the fine flower of the European tradition of civility which, if it is not dying, certainly is not flourishing today.

He was altogether not the mass man of our times. He could be a very good friend, but there was a deep reserve in his character which few if any can have penetrated.

In the great public world where the white lights blazed upon him, he lived an inner life of contemplation and esthetic experience that had nothing to do with power and popularity and publicity. His diplomacy had a finesse and a courtliness in the great traditions of Europe. Never before—and perhaps never again—has any man used the intense art of diplomacy for such unconventional and such novel experiments.

The biggest experiment for which in the end he gave his life, was to move the international society of the United Nations from having to choose between a very difficult police action in Korea and sole reliance on debate and verbal expression. He moved the UN onto the plane of executive action without large-scale war as in Korea.

This movement from words to deeds, from general resolutions to intervention, was best seen during the crisis at Suez, in Palestine, in Laos, and then in the enormous, infinitely difficult and the infinitely dangerous crisis in the Congo.

I knew Dag Hammarskjöld long enough and well enough, I think, to understand why he accepted the risks of opening up new paths in such wild and uncharted country.

He was not an innovator because he had an itch to change things. He was a political innovator because there was no decent alternative. He saw no alternative to intervention by the United Nations in a crisis where there was a bitter confrontation in the cold war.

No cautious and timid man would have dreamed of staking the prestige and perhaps the future of the United Nations, as well as his personal reputation and his office, on the attempt to pacify the Congo. But great as were the risks of intervention, the risks of letting events run their course were much greater.

If the United Nations now fails in what Hammarskjöld inaugurated, the prospects are that the terrible racial struggle between Europeans and Africans will become deeply entangled in the conflict between the Western powers and the Communist powers of the Soviet Union and China.

It was to avert and to prevent this fatal entanglement that Hammarskjöld dared to use the powers of the United Nations. The outcome is as yet unknown. But what we do know is that his unprecedented innovation in world affairs has run into fearful resistance both in the East and in the West.

Hammarskjöld's use of the UN to isolate and disinfect the Congo crisis brought on him and the UN the implacable hatred of the Soviet government. At the same time Hammarskjöld did not have the full support of the Western powers.

In Algeria, in Katanga, in Angola, in Rhodesia, and in South Africa there is bitter resistance to the objectives of the United Nations in the Congo. Those objectives are to protect the transition from white supremacy, which cannot be continued much longer, to African self-government, for which the Africans are so unprepared.

There is no doubt that in the administration of the new UN policy there have been mistakes, errors of judgment and failures of personnel. But let us keep it in mind that the cause of the two-sided opposition to the UN action is not the mistakes, which are not irreparable.

No one knows today who can come after Hammarskjöld, and there are many signs that he is in fact irreplaceable. For Hammarskjöld was made Secretary-General at a time when the UN was really no more than a debating society.

It is easy to say that the world is not ready for international action to establish peace, and it would be hard to refute such a statement. Hammarskjöld, under the fearful pressure of circumstances, resorted to international action. With his extraordinary diplomatic elegance and finesse, he used successfully international action at Suez, in Palestine, and in Laos. Compared with these the Congo presented a new order of difficulty, and the outcome, now that Hammarskjöld is dead, is in the gravest doubt.

If the world is not ready for what Hammarskjöld felt compelled to try in the Congo, it is also true, I hate to say, that this present world is not ready for the kind of man Hammarskjöld was.

He was a Western man in the highest traditions of political excellence in the West. Khrushchev says that Hammarskjöld was not neutral in the Congo, and that there is no such thing as a neutral man.

Hammarskjöld was in fact the embodiment of the noblest Western political achievement—that laws can be administered by judges and civil servants who have their first allegiance to the laws, and not to their personal, their class, or even their national interests.

No such political ideal is believed to be possible or is regarded as tolerable in the Marxist world. The ideal is not very well understood in most of the rest of the world, and there is no use pretending that such public servants are not very rare indeed.

So there are times, as now in this hour of our grief and shock, when the ideal seems to belong to things that are passing away.

The clerk, with just a trace of smugness answers in perfect English, "Large or small, madame?" Dissolve.

Incidentally, we discovered a new word in England, Toilet. None of this nonsense of bathroom or washroom or restroom. The children are enchanted with the word, and one must admit it has a nice direct quality.

The toilet paper here is a fine glossy parchment. It would be lovely for wrapping fish or butter. Oh, one could write reams on European bathroom tissue. Literally.

A Mother With a Mixed-Up Boy

Many mothers write to ask me what they should do with a son who is feminine in many of his interests, and perhaps is living largely for music or art. He will seldom go out with a girl, and then he may go with a mannish girl who is a bit mixed-up, much as he is. What the mother wants to know is what she can or should do about the situation. Should she scold her son and perhaps ask the family doctor to scold him? I would say, "Most certainly not." The boy is probably very lonely and very unhappy about the situation, and there is nothing he can do to change it.

Alvarez

The mother wants to know if she should consult their minister, and I would say "No." The problem, as I see it, is purely a medical one. While he was in the womb, something went decidedly wrong in the development of the boy's brain and, to some extent, his body. I do not infer that these lads are not bright; in an army study their intelligence and ability averages were found to be higher than normal.

Many a mother wants to know if she should scold and raise Cain when her son brings a close friend home with him; and again I would say "No." That would be very unkind and very stupid and would only drive the son away from his family. The next question is should the mother try to get her son to marry a nice girl? My answer would be to leave that up to him; only he can know whether or not he could stand living every day with a woman; and only he can know if he can show her enough affection to keep her reasonably happy. My feeling is that the girl ought to be told what she is getting into. I have seen cases in which the young man did a very dirty trick to an affectionate girl by marrying her, just to get a housekeeper and a "front" to deflect suspicion from himself. Naturally, she soon was desperately unhappy.

The next big question the mother asks is: "Should I insist that my son take extensive treatment from a psychiatrist?" I would say "No"—unless perhaps a kindly, old-type of psychiatrist could be found who would just talk to the lad and help him with his adjustments to an unhappy and lonely life. I agree with many of my psychiatric friends who tell me they do not believe that they can change these lads and really cure them.

So often the mother of the unusual son will say, "I guess he was born the way he is. I noticed that he was 'different' when he was little. He liked to play with dolls, and he never cared to go out with the boys to play and lot football." Yes, the mother is right. Also, when I can sit down for a long chat with the mother, she usually will tell me of some members of her or her husband's family who were not normal nervously. Some apparently were asexuals who never married because they had no ability to love either man or woman. Others were eccentric or actually psychotic. One or more took to the bottle, perhaps to drown his grief over his loneliness, and one may have committed suicide. After talking to the families of dozens of these persons who were sexually confused, my impression is strong that the disease is inherited as a variant of psychosis.

A hundred times a year, when I hear even educated people speak of the germ "theory" of disease, this bothers me. Actually, the idea that germs or bacteria or viruses can produce acute infectious disease never was a theory. A hundred years or so ago, when Pasteur was asked by the French growers of silkworms to find out why most of their worms were dying of diarrhea, he looked with his microscope and saw that the sick worms were full of germs and the well ones had no germs. By picking out worm eggs which had no germs on them, he soon built up a new stock of healthy worms and the silk industry of France was saved.

Similarly, when Pasteur was asked by the brewers to find out why some batches of beer tasted bad, he soon saw with his microscope that the bad beer was full of germs. Also the wine that turned sour was full of germs. When, with the help of his microscope, he picked out good, clean brewers' yeast and clean wine-making yeast there was no more trouble.

I thought of all this as I read where Drs. W. J. Nickerson and J. J. Noval first reported that a new germ has been found which so quickly and easily removes the hair from hides that it probably will now work a revolution in the leather industry. I am sure any man who has spent his life in a university laboratory, working every day with bacteria which produces diseases—not only in man, but in farm animals and in beer, wine and cheese—would not enjoy hearing someone say he was working on a "theory." To him, his germs are as visible and as real as are the farmer's cattle, sheep, hogs and chickens!

Winch Cool
On Ottawa's
CD Exercise

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member of Parliament Saturday picked apart in minute detail the conduct of the civil defence exercise Tocsin, 1 carried out earlier this year.

Harold Winch, Vancouver East, took the government to task during Commons consideration of spending estimates for Emergency Measures Organization, which co-ordinates national survival plans.

Mr. Winch was one of two opposition members invited by the government to take part in the exercise as observers.

It included the practice evacuation of cabinet ministers and their staffs, high administration officials and senior military personnel to Camp Petawawa, Ont., 100 miles northwest of here.

Mr. Winch said he assumed that any power which planned to launch a nuclear attack against Canada would have saboteurs placed in strategic positions in advance of the attack. Yet there was no security check of those being evacuated.

There was no communication car on the train carrying the officials away from Ottawa, so the government was "completely out of touch" with what was happening across Canada.

Furthermore, said Mr. Winch, he had been told the communications equipment at Petawawa was not the latest, and that the actual dispatch centre was above ground.

Threat of A-Bomb No Bed of Roses

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Jean Kuciks gazed wistfully at her backyard and said "it used to be a nice backyard all full of roses."

Today there is a 16-foot-deep hole in the yard and a concrete mixer is pouring the walls of what is believed to be Metropolitan Toronto's first bomb blast shelter.

John Kuciks, 49, a spray painter, is paying $2,300 for a shelter—first of a new design produced by a Metro firm.

designing it and having it approved.

He said it is the first approved blast shelter—as distinct from fallout shelter—in Canada.

He says it will protect a family living three-to five miles from the burst of a five M-megaton bomb.

The shelter has eight-inch thick reinforced concrete walls and roof and is covered by six feet of earth. A hand pump provides filtered air.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Prepare for 'Winter Interest'

The prolonged dry spell and sunshine has kept the summer-blooming annuals flowering well in gardens where they have received sufficient water at their roots.

However, in cases where the snapdragons, petunias, marigolds and zinnias are looking faded and worn from drought it is a good plan to pull them out now, and prepare to plant something which will be in terest for the winter and early spring months.

Too often we delay removing the annual plants because they still bear a few blossoms, but the effort of removing them now is worth the satisfaction of being able to clear the plot and replant while the weather is still good.

BEFORE SUPPER

With dark evenings suddenly with us, many of us will find ourselves working an extra hour in the garden before supper, in a frantic endeavor to catch up before the weather catches up with us.

Around a new house, winter flowering heathers could take the place of the summer annuals. They lend an air of permanency to the home surroundings yet do not cost so much as larger, more permanent shrubs.

REPLANTED

In a year or so, when larger plantings are considered, the heathers may be dug up with a root-ball and replanted in another position.

There are other plants which will give winter interest yet not be in the way when later plantings are considered. Snowdrops, winter crocuses, blood-red wallflowers and early golden trumpet daffodils would be hard to beat for low cost color replacing summer annuals.

Industry is preparing for the day when Japan's wages equal those of other highly developed countries by building up her exports in heavy goods, Mr. Iawasa said.

Government Held Responsible for Dairy Decline

HALIFAX (CP)—A decline in the domestic market for dairy products is "the direct result of excessive and ever-increasing governmental intervention and control," the National Dairy Council of Canada said today.

President Pierre Cote said it is time that governments get out of the dairy business.

Addressing the opening of the council's 44th annual meeting, he said the problem facing the Canadian dairy industry is under-consumption, not over-production.

"I say to you that the accelerating loss of our domestic market for butter and fresh fluid milk is the direct result of excessive and ever-increasing governmental intervention and control which has been inflicted on our industry since the end of the Second World War," he declared.

The time has come when governments should clean up the surplus mess which their policies have created and then get out of the business."

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—The flax market on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange rallied late in the session today and recovered most of its early losses.

Flax trading was active with early selling by commission houses and United States interests touching off some stop-loss selling.

Oats and barley were lower with selling by commission houses and locals. Some spreading operations were reported in oats with buying in Winnipeg against sales in Chicago.

Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat prices, basis Lakehead, were all unchanged from Friday's close.

KENNEDY CHALLENGES SOVIET

But, he asserted:
"No such action can affect either our rights or our responsibilities."

He said the Western powers cannot surrender the freedom of West Berlin or their commitments in Germany.

"A 'peace treaty' which would destroy the peace would be a fraud," he said. "A 'free city' which would suffocate freedom would be an infamy."

The Western allies "have calmly resolved to defend, by whatever means are forced upon them, their obligations and their access to the free citizens of West Berlin and the self-determination of those citizens," Kennedy said.

"Firmness and reason, rather than brandishing or yielding to threats, can lead to a peaceful solution," he said.

He said troops and tanks can for a time divide a nation against its will.

"But we believe a peaceful agreement is possible which protects the freedom of West Berlin and allied presence and access, while recognizing the historic and legitimate interests of others in assuring European security."

Events of the next 10 months may well decide man's fate for the next 10,000 years, Kennedy declared. He pledged every effort to spare future generations the scourge of war.

NO PROVOCATION

"I pledge you that we shall neither commit nor provoke aggression—that we shall neither flee nor invoke the threat of force—that we shall never negotiate out of fear and never fear to negotiate," he said.

To the non-committed nations which make up nearly half the UN membership, Kennedy said a "worldwide declaration of independence" has transferred nearly 1,000,000, 000 people and 9,000,000 square miles into 42 independent states since the Second World War. In response to their protests against Western colonialism, he said less than two per cent of the world's population now lives under such rule.

NO MERE OBSERVER

The U.S. intends to be a participant and not merely an observer in the movement of nations from colonial to equal status, Kennedy said. He added, referring directly to the Soviet Union, that "there is no ignoring the fact that the tide of self-determination has not reached the Communist empire."

He added:
"Let us debate colonialism in full—and apply the principle of free choice and the practice of free plebiscites in every part of the globe."

Kennedy said the U.S. program for disarmament would proceed through balanced and safeguarded stages designed to prevent one country from gaining military advantage over another.

TRUE INSPECTION

"It would place the final responsibility for verification and control where it belongs—not with the big powers alone, not with one's adversary or one's self—but in an international organization within the framework of the United Nations itself."

He announced that the program would provide for true inspection, which he called an indispensable condition of disarmament. Inspection would also be incorporated in stages to halt ultimately production as well as testing of weapons. It would also halt transfer as well as possession of such weapons.

Under the eye of an international disarmament organization Kennedy said, the program would achieve a steady reduction in nuclear and conventional forces "until it has abolished all armies and all weapons except those needed for internal order and a new United Nations peace force."

CONTINUE ARMS TALKS

Kennedy proposed a prompt resumption of disarmament negotiations which would continue without pause until complete and general disarmament has not only been agreed upon but actually achieved.

Kennedy said "the cold reaches of the universe" must not become a new arena "of an even colder war."

"To this end, we shall urge proposals extending the United Nations charter to the limit of man's exploration in the universe, reserving . . . space for peaceful use, prohibiting weapons of mass destruction in space or on celestial bodies, and opening the mysteries and benefits of space to every nation."

"We shall further propose co-operative efforts in weather prediction and eventually weather control."

COMMUNICATION LINK

"We shall propose, finally, a global system of communication satellites linking the whole world in telegraph, telephone, radio and television. The day need not be far away when such a system will televise the proceedings of this body to every corner of the world."

The president said self-determination is but a slogan if the future holds no hope.

"That is why my nation—which has freely shared its capital and its technology to help others help themselves—now proposes officially designating this decade of the 1960s as the UN decade of development."

He said that under that framework "the UN's existing efforts in promoting economic growth can be expanded and co-ordinated."

Woolworth Pickets Halted On Order of Supreme Court

Pickets were withdrawn from Woolworth stores in downtown Victoria and the Town 'n' Country shopping centre today because of an injunction granted by the B.C. Supreme Court.

The injunction also stopped picketing of six Woolworth stores in Vancouver and others on the lower mainland.

It was issued Saturday by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett at the request of the management of Woolworth's. The firm applied for an injunction after Local 1518 of the Retail Food and Drug Clerks' Union set up pickets at the Victoria and Vancouver stores.

It will be contested in B.C. Supreme Court, Vancouver, within four days by legal counsel for the union.

TALKS FAIL

The picketing followed failure to reach agreement in a three-month wage dispute at Woolworth's Port Alberni branch.

In Victoria Saturday police were called in an attempt to remove the picket line from Woolworth's downtown store. One of the picketers said an official of the store told them they would be arrested for "obstructing."

He said Saanich police also visited the Town 'n' Country picket line Friday night.

The strike started three months ago after Woolworth's rejected a conciliation board award of $1.25 an hour for store clerks. The present pay is 87¢ cents an hour.

AWARD DEFIED

Woolworth's, from its head office in Toronto, has literally defied this conciliation award, a spokesman for Local 151 of the Retail Clerks Union in Victoria said today.

The injunction against picketing could touch off a legal battle that might end before the Supreme Court of Canada.

The controversy centres around the question of whether a union may post pickets in front of a non-striking or non-organized branch of a company against which it has a legal strike.

Labor had thought that Bill

43 prohibited such picket lines. But on Sept. 7 the B.C. Supreme Court ruled in favor of the Retail, Wholesale, Clerks Union.

Basing its action on the court's decision, the Victoria local of the union posted pickets on Woolworth stores Friday and Saturday.

IN VANCOUVER

City 'Frosh' Wins At Dressage Show

Victoria College freshman Jean Dunbar took time out from her academic studies on the weekend to take some "high school" tests in horsemanship.

She came away with first class honors.

Miss Dunbar, 1007 Joan Crescent, one of B.C.'s top riders, took two of her horses to the Cedarhurst Dressage Show at Vancouver, and got "scholarship marks" with both.

Examination markers were George Petty, senior Canadian Horse Shows Association dressage judge, and Borg Olsen, guest judge.

In jumping dressage, 18-year-old Miss Dunbar took first place with her eight-year-old mare, Fen's Folly, and second with Seven-Up, her 12-year-old open jumper.

They didn't stop there. In the CHSA novice test dressage, Jean and Fen were first again, and with the gelding, Seven-Up, the young rider won third place.

REVERSAL

Then, in the elementary dressage test, they reversed the standing. Seven-Up was first and Fen's Folly third.

The two then teamed in bar riding Seven-Up and Miss Inez Fischer-Credo on Fen's Folly. Miss Fischer-Credo, who performed brilliantly in an exhibition here with her mare Gordino a week ago, is one of the world's leading dressage riders. She and Miss Dunbar, on the two local horses, took second place.

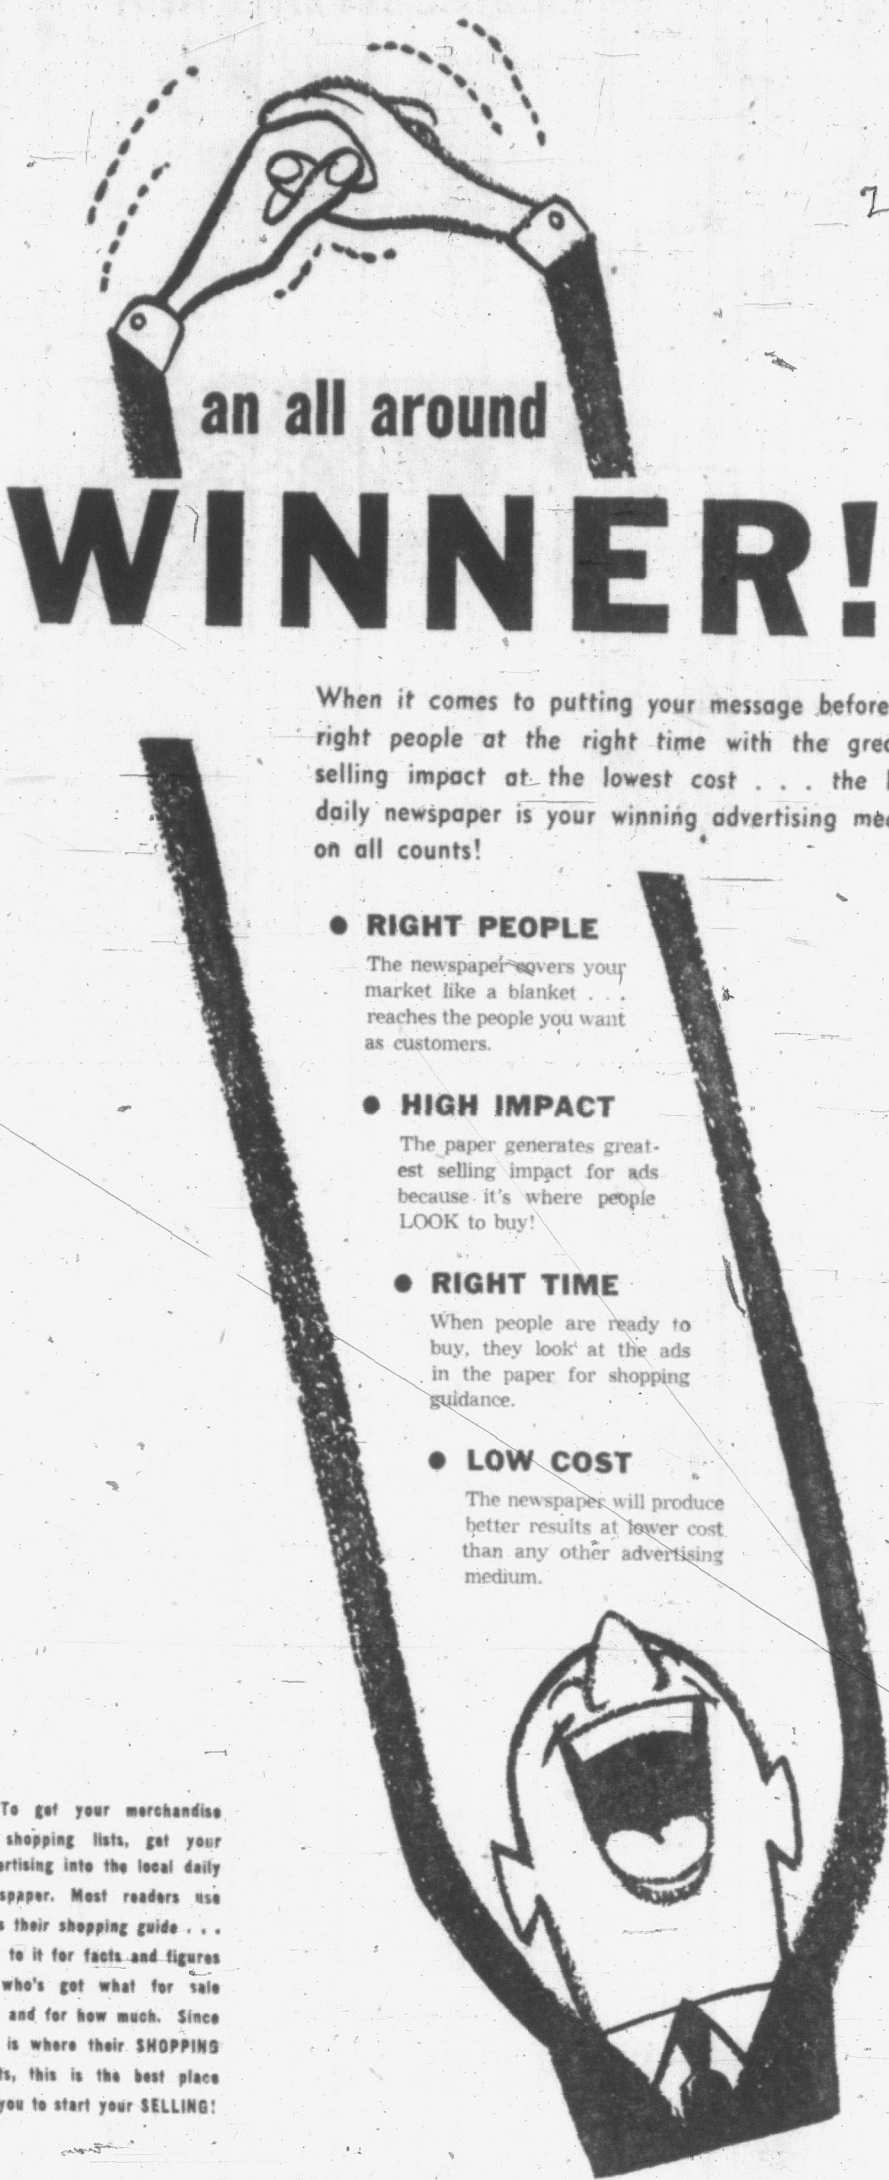

SECOND

Finally, 12 horses were chosen for the Western Canadian junior preliminary dressage championship novice test. Miss Dunbar and Fen's Folly placed second and won a place in the final test for four horses and riders.

In the final, a four-minute sight, unseen test in which each rider is given vocally, from the ringside, the manoeuvres wanted, Miss Dunbar and her mare were judged best.

Robert William Brenton, Sidney, was fined $13 and $4.50 costs in Sidney RCMP court Friday for careless driving.

At the same sitting Elmer Ray Adams, Sidney, was fined $10 and $2 costs for making an unsafe left turn, and a juvenile was fined $10 for driving unaccompanied by an adult, $10 for no insurance and $5 for inadequate service brakes.

17 MILLION FEATHERS LINE HOBBYIST'S NEST

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—A full-sized duck wears 1,491,669 feathers to keep him warm in winter while a sparrow makes do with only 2,531, says Herluf Hansen, Denmark's leading, and probably only, feather expert. Hansen is sure of the figures. He has counted the feathers during long winter nights.

He has also counted and classified every other feather in his collection of about 10,000,000, and another 7,000,000 are waiting to be counted, recorded and mounted for display in what is probably the world's only feather museum.

Hansen, 35, for the last 15 years has devoted his life to his feather collection.

Since 1957, the feathers have rewarded Hansen for his care by providing most of his income. His museum was visited by about 2,400 people last summer.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Janice McMillar, age 11, of Montgomery, Ala., for her question:

What is a Tuna Fish Like?

The tuna that comes to the table is a tasty fish dish. The meat is rich in body-building protein with sunshine vitamins hidden in its oily goodness. The tuna from which this sturdy meat comes is an ocean-going fish. Some people say that the meat of the big bluefin tuna has the best flavor. But Andy and many others think that the meat of the yellowfin and the skipjack tunas are just as good.

The bluefin tuna, alias the tunny, is certainly the king of the tuna family. He is a mighty fellow, maybe 10 feet long. He may weigh three quarters of a ton and the man to catch him must be quite a fisherman. For the big tunny is a powerhouse of energy and muscle and he fights to the bitter end with all his strength.

The tunny is hatched in the Atlantic Ocean not far from the proud rock of Gibraltar. Along with countless young relatives, he soon begins to prowl far and wide. When fully grown, he will prowl the oceans of the entire world. He will hunt herring and smaller fish with a school of his friends and relatives, and wherever he goes, the mighty meat-eater will be feared.

The back of the big tunny is glistening blue. His underside is grey, blotched with silver. His smaller cousins are hatched off Central America or near the South Sea Islands. These fellows also prowl the seas in hungry packs, but they usually spend their entire lives in the waters of the Pacific Ocean.

The tunas are distant cousins of the silver-blue mackerel, the graceful marlin and the long-snouted swordfish. As a family, they are not very scaly fish. The tunas, in fact, seem to have no scales at all. If you touch the skin of a big tunny you would feel only smooth slippery slime.

Scales Below Skin Surface

Actually the tuna does have scales though they are not in sight. He has very small scales buried below the surface of his skin.

Every tuna is built for speed. His body is streamlined from his tapered head to his tapered tail. His eyes and gill covers do not poke out to spoil his smooth, streamlined head. His slippery skin and smooth lines make it easy for the big fish to glide through the water. The big tunny has a cruising speed of nine miles an hour, but when he wishes he can travel at 40 miles an hour.

All this activity burns up food and the tunny is one of the hungriest animals in the sea. Activity also generates heat and the tuna has a body temperature higher than the water in which he swims. This is very rare, for fish are cold-blooded animals. This strong and energetic animal, fast and handsome, is the tuna who provides our tuna meat.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Kathleen Farrell, age 10, of San Diego, Calif., for her question:

To what family does the anteater belong?

In everyday language, any animal who dines on ants can be called an anteater. But in order to be classified together in one family, a group of animals must have several important features in common. If animals could be classified merely on diet, the bears would be in the same family as certain monkeys, for both eat meat and vegetables.

Most of the well-known anteaters, however, have no teeth or a few weak teeth and toothiness is one of those basic features by which animals can be classified. The family name of these anteaters is Edentata—the toothless ones. The sloths and the armadillos, the scaly pangolins and the big aardvarks are anteating edentates.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Carol Lawrence, turning 27 the other week, faced the happy fact that she may be Show Business' outstanding Young Woman of 1961.

Around Christmas, the name Carol Lawrence should be sparkling from two Broadway marquees — the new David Merrick musical, "Subways Are For Sleeping," and the new Arthur Miller movie, "A View From the Bridge."

Her French beauty "Cleopatra" sat on her knee in Carol's mid-fifties apartment the other evening. Carol had just hopped in from Hollywood where, in a week, she'd recorded an entire album for Fred Astaire's new company, "Chorus." In a few hours she would be rehearsing for a new TV chore, dancing her head off practically in "The Magic Nutcracker." She had been sleeping all day, recovering from the Hollywood recording chore.

"What will you be doing with all your wealth?" I asked her.

"Going to buy more paintings," she said, nodding to ward her wall. "There's a Daumier I have my eye on in Paris... a little water color..."

"You're about to be a big star," I said. "Sarah Bernhardt's supposed to have said that an actress shouldn't fall in love till after she's a star because once she's a star she can choose her lovers and have anybody she wants."

Carol thought that was ridiculous.

"And it's untrue," she said. "If you wait that long, you'd find that the men you'd want, if they're MEN, would be married!"

BIT WISTFUL

The young lady who would seem to have everything she needs professionally looked a bit wistful.

"It's hard to live alone," she said. "Nothing is important if you can't share it with someone..."

"And how are you doing?" "You'll be the second to know. I hope I'm the first to know."

Carol's career has zoomed since "West Side Story." In Hollywood, she had dinner with Fred Astaire who, she says, is surprisingly shy.

"You think of him as being suave and debonair but he's so shy he can hardly look at you. He's 63 and he says the newspapers won't get off his back about his age. He told me that after he read what some of them said he felt he should go lie down and take a good rest.

"Listen," Carol said, "there are some 22-year-olds who are so old, dull and uninteresting that you wouldn't want to spend a minute with them."

Carol was courted a bit in Paris by Grace Kelly's father-in-law, Prince Rainier's father, and she also proved fascinating to the well-known painter, Marc Chagall, who in all seriousness pleaded with her to come up to his studio and let him show her his watercolors.

EARL'S PEARLS: When a girl laughs at everything, her boy friend says, you can be sure of one thing — she has attractive teeth.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The teen-agers are holding in their hands the future of this country — and its telephones, too.

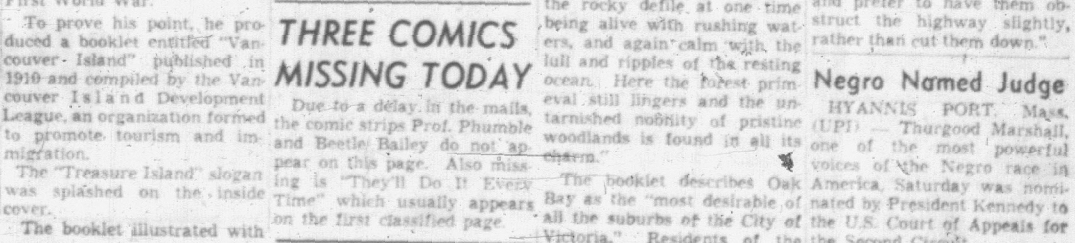

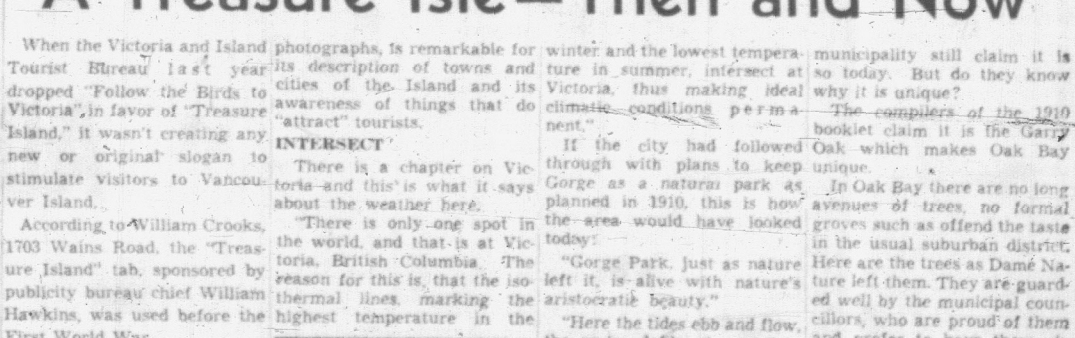

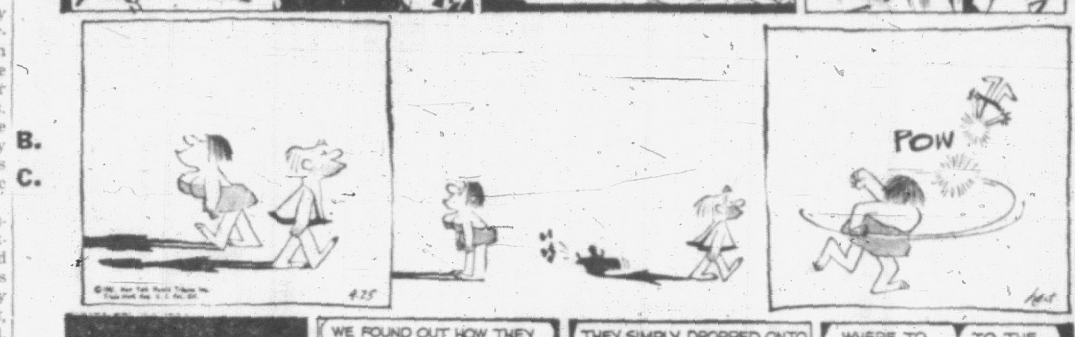

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Winifred Wolfe's book, "If A Man Answers," has this line: "Most men develop appetites when they are 12, muscles when they are 16, and principles only after they're married."

That Russian astronaut circled the earth at lightning speed, notes Dick Gregory, but he had the same problem we have here — he's still waiting at the airport for his luggage.

That's earl, brother.

SO WHAT ELSE IS NEW, MR. HAWKINS?

A Treasure Isle—Then and Now

When the Victoria and Island Tourist Bureau last year dropped "Follow the Birds to Victoria," in favor of "Treasure Island," it wasn't creating any new or original slogan to stimulate visitors to Vancouver Island.

According to William Crooks, 1703 Wains Road, the "Treasure Island" tab, sponsored by publicity bureau chief William Hawkins, was used before the First World War.

To prove his point, he produced a booklet entitled "Vancouver Island," published in 1910 and compiled by the Vancouver Island Development League, an organization formed to promote tourism and immigration.

The "Treasure Island" slogan was splashed on the inside cover.

The booklet illustrated with photographs, is remarkable for its description of towns and cities of the Island and its awareness of things that do "attract" tourists.

INTEREST

There is a chapter on Victoria and this is what it says about the weather here.

"There is only one spot in the world, and that is at Victoria, British Columbia. The reason for this, is that the thermal lines, marking the highest temperature in the winter and the lowest temperature in summer, intersect at Victoria, thus making ideal climatic conditions permanent."

If the city had followed through with plans to keep Gorge as a natural park as planned in 1910, this is how the area would have looked today.

"Gorge Park, just as nature left it, is alive with nature's aristocratic beauty."

"Here the tides ebb and flow, the rocky defile, at one time being alive with rushing waters, and again calm with the lull and ripples of the resting ocean. Here the noblest prelude still lingers and the untarnished nobility of pristine woodlands is found in all its charm."

The booklet describes Oak Bay as the "most desirable of all the suburbs of the City of Victoria." Residents of the municipality still claim it is so today. But do they know why it is unique?

The compilers of the 1910 booklet claim it is the Garry Oak which makes Oak Bay unique.

In Oak Bay there are no long avenues of trees, no formal groves such as offend the taste in the usual suburban district. Here are the trees as Dame Nature left them. They are guarded well by the municipal councilors, who are proud of them and prefer to have them obstruct the highway slightly, rather than cut them down."

Plot to Kill Castro Fails; U.S. Accused

HAVANA (AP)—A plot to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro and lay the ground work for another invasion of Cuba has been smashed, the government claimed Sunday night.

A communique said 12 counter-revolutionaries armed with bazookas and hand grenades supplied by the U.S. central intelligence agency have been seized.

Luis Torroella, described as a 31-year-old former treasury ministry employee in the Batista regime, was named as the leader of the plotters.

The communique said an ambush was to be laid for Castro as the prime minister drove to Ciudad Deportiva Stadium, where he frequently appears for rallies.

From a garage across from the stadium, bazookas mounted on a jeep were to open fire while a car sped out to block the highway. Other plotters were to create a diversion by throwing grenades.

Want Historic Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated today he believes an arrangement can be worked out for the purchase by Canada of Earncliffe, former home of Sir John A. Macdonald and now the residence of the British high commissioner here.

QUEBEC (CP)—Daniel Johnson, the Union Nationale's new party leader, apparently believes Quebec can achieve greater provincial autonomy within the framework of the Canadian constitution.

During the party convention which ended with his election Saturday there were indications the party might be heading to the brink of separatism, but Mr. Johnson said later "fulfilment of the French-Canadian community" is possible under the constitution.

At a press conference after he won the leadership in a close fight with Jean-Jacques Bertrand, Mr. Johnson said separatists and the Union Nationale want the same thing: Quebec "fulfilment."

The 46-year-old member of the legislature for Bagot and former hydraulic resources minister said separatists believe the establishment of a separate state in Quebec is an end in itself while his party believes it is a means to an end.

"Separatism is necessary, but not necessarily separatism," he said, acknowledging he was paraphrasing a statement about conscription by former prime minister Mackenzie-King.

Mr. Johnson, who had campaigned hard for the leadership, got 1,006 votes compared with 912 for the fast-closing Mr. Bertrand, member for Missisquoi and former youth and welfare minister whose grass roots campaign began only six weeks ago.

Mr. Bertrand publicly pledged his support for Mr. Johnson, but did not ask the delegates to make the election of his colleague unanimous—the usual practice in political conventions.

The party platform adopted Saturday morning emphasized federal-provincial relations and the Union Nationale's time-tested election issue of provincial autonomy.

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Dr. Jacob Zhidkov, 76, president of the Russian Baptist Union, said Sunday the fear of a third world war is as great in the Soviet Union as it is in the West.

The majority of Russians do not want another war and "fervently hope there won't be one," said Dr. Zhidkov, speaking through an interpreter—his son Michael, also a Baptist minister.

The Zhidkovs and a third minister, Dr. Ella Ivanov, arrived in Canada Saturday as guests of the Baptist Federation of Canada. They will spend two weeks here.

WOODSTOCK, Ill. (AP)—Lawrence Nova, 17, was killed Sunday during an exchange of gunfire between two groups of Chicago youths playing "war" in a farm field. The four youths who survived said Nova staggered from behind a tree and fell, mortally wounded in the right shoulder. A 22-calibre slug punctured his lung.

In 115 classrooms of the Department of National Defence schools in Europe, there are 2,950 pupils enrolled in the Canadian Junior Red Cross.

TWO AUSSIES FREED AFTER RANSOM PAID

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two Australian aid officials kidnapped by Communist guerrillas were free today after payment of ransom—the equivalent of $70 in cash and a typewriter.

Wilfred Arthur, a dairy expert, and Lawrence Crozier, attached to the Australian embassy, said they were subjected to endless hours of a rather mild brainwashing.

"They would say the United States did this or that bad thing and then ask us 'what do you think of that?'" said Crozier.

Otherwise the Communists treated them well and gave them beer and cigarettes.

Spahn Hits His Target But Rog, Reds Stalled

Two-Hitter Gives Warren 12th 20-Victory Season

By United Press International

Roger Maris and Cincinnati Reds are still in search of their magic numbers, but Warren Spahn's is already tucked away safely in the record book.

Maris failed again to hit "Big 60" and the reluctant Reds stumbled again on the threshold of their first National League pennant since 1940 Sunday, but Spahn made it look easy as he achieved the 12th 20-victory season of his career.

Milwaukee Braves' 40-year-old left-hander did it with a two-hit, 8-0 win over Chicago Cubs that raised his season record to 20-13 and career victory total to 308. His dozen 20-win seasons tie him in that respect with Walter Johnson and leave him one behind the career total of Christy Mathewson and four behind the lifetime total of Cy Young.

The numbers game, however, produced only frustration for Maris and the Reds, who started the weekend with their golden goals virtually in their grasp.

Maris collected only a single in three official trips to the plate as the New York Yankees bowed to the Boston Red Sox, 3-1, and still needs one more homer to equal Babe Ruth's all-time high. The Yankee slugger has five games left—on Tuesday and Wednesday against Baltimore and a weekend series with Boston, all in New York.

Despite the loss the Reds' pennant-clinching number dipped to two when the Los Angeles Dodgers suffered an 8-7 loss to St. Louis Cardinals.

Detroit Tigers beat Los Angeles Angels, 7-5; Washington downed Minnesota Twins, 4-1, on Dick Donovan's one-hitter; and Baltimore Orioles scored a 5-3 victory after losing to Chicago White Sox, 8-7, in other American League games.

The Cubs won the second game of their doubleheader with the Braves, 4-2, and Pittsburgh Pirates beat Philadelphia, 4-3, in other NL action.

Curt Flood, Bill White and Carl Warwick drove in two runs each and Lindy McDaniel halted a Dodger rally in the ninth as the Cardinals dealt 18-game winner Sandy Koufax his 12th defeat. Ron Fairly extended his hitting streak to 15 games with a double and two singles for the Dodgers.

HUNT THE GOAT

Outfielder Ken Hunt's miff of a fly ball enabled the Tigers to score two runs in the 10th inning and score their fifth straight victory. Hunt remained in the game after pinch-hitting a homer that tied the score in the eighth inning. It was Los Angeles' seventh loss in a row.

Dick Donovan yielded just one hit—a seventh-inning homer by Joe Altobelli—in raising his record to 10-9 for the Senators.

Run-scoring singles by Dick Stuart and Bob Skinner produced two runs in the seventh inning and gave Pittsburgh's Vinny Pazienza his seventh triumph. The Phillies made four double plays to set a new club record of 172 in a season.

LACROSSE SHUTOUT

Don Chalks Up Historic First

VANCOUVER — Don Hamilton, a 24-year-old native of Victoria who has had two brief trials as a professional hockey goaltender, today owns the first shutout ever posted in a Canadian senior lacrosse final.

Hamilton did it by stopping 22 shots as Vancouver trounced Brampton Ramblers 13-0 before 900 fans Saturday night and took a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Canadian final.

It was the first shutout since the Mann Cup was put up for challenge competition in 1910, and the first since eastern and western teams began an annual series for the $2,500 trophy in 1925.

It is also the first known shutout in senior play, league or playoff. Western officials said they have never heard of another shutout, while eastern sources were unable to recall such a feat.

PLAY TONIGHT

Vancouver now is in a position to win the Canadian title tonight. If a fifth game is needed, and the possibility appears slight, it will be played Wednesday.

Vancouver easily won the first two games, 14-6 and 11-4. Defenceman Bill Barbour again led Vancouver with three goals and an assist.

John Cervi and Ted Hunt had two goals each while Gordie Gimble, Stew Smith, Bob Babcock, Fred Uselman, Alec Carey and Bill Chisholm had singles.

CLEAN CONTEST

The game was the cleanest of the series with only 16 minutes in penalties, eight to each team. Vancouver scored three power-play goals, giving them 12 for the series. Brampton has yet to connect when playing with a man advantage.

Hamilton's only anxious moments came on three shots from Brampton defenceman Gordie Thompson. One of these hit the cross-bar.

Hamilton was playing his first full game in almost a month—Hamilton, who had short stints with Victoria Cougars and Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League in the 1958-59 and 59-60 seasons, played 27 of Vancouver's 30 league games before giving way to veteran Stan Joseph for most of the playoffs.

SOFTBALL CHAMPS

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Aurora, Ill., won the world softball championship Friday night for the second time by defeating Detroit, Mich. 2-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Harvey Sterkel.

HE HAS A RIGHT TO BE PROUD

Appearing rightfully proud of victory in Saturday's Times Handicap at Sandown Park, Desert Fire poses regally after being decorated by Mrs. Stuart Keate. Also in winner's circle are handler Joe Gallo, jockey Joe D'Augustino and owner Stan Soper. Desert Fire singled field to win easily by six lengths. See story and form chart on page 12. Habitants Learn Today If Dickie Heads East Fingers were crossed this morning as Montreal Canadiens went back to twice-a-day workouts at Memorial Arena with three more names lopped off their roster.

They were hoping that scoring star Dickie Moore wouldn't be added to the list of players heading east before the National Hockey League club winds up its pre-season training in Victoria.

Moore, former NHL scoring champion, collided with Ralph Backstrom along the boards during a Saturday scrimmage session and came out of the collision with an injured left knee.

It is the same knee that has been causing the 30-year-old sniping ace trouble for a couple of seasons and which was operated on this summer for removal of cartilage. Moore was having difficulty walking Sunday and appeared to believe he would be on the shelf for some time.

However, there was a slight ray of hope for coach Toe Blake. The club physician believes the injury is a new one to ligaments—and that Moore should be able to resume skating in a few days.

EXAMINATION TODAY

An extensive examination of the knee was slated today and Blake should know this evening whether or not he will be forced to send Moore back to Montreal for treatment.

Definitely on the way to eastern clubs today were two rookies and defenceman John Hanna.

Jacques Lapierre, a 19-year-old defenceman who is touted a future star, was a bit of a disappointment in training and will spend another season in junior ranks. Forward Bill Masterton, a Denver University product, impressed in the last few days after getting away to a slow start and will join the Habitants' Hull-Ottawa farm club in the Eastern Professional League. Hanna will report to either Hull-Ottawa or Quebec.

TREMBLAY STARS

Given an easy day Sunday, with only one workout instead of the usual two, the Canadiens will make the first start of their pre-season exhibition tour Tuesday night at Vancouver against the Western Hockey League Canucks.

Wednesday night the Habs will be back at Memorial Arena for a clash with Spokane Comets.

Star of Sunday's session was winger Gilles Tremblay. Working with Masterton and Claude Provost, Tremblay provided Blake with some happy thoughts, as he sizzled through the scrimmage and fired three goals.

The Major Shows In East Feature

TORONTO (CP)—Windy Ship, owned by J. H. Stafford of Toronto, won the 44th running of the $12,000 Seagram Cup at Woodbine Saturday afternoon.

The official result was delayed 10 minutes while stewards investigated a claim of foul lodged by jockey Chris Rogers, who finished second on Derval. Rogers claimed foul against Windy Ship's stable mate, Wonderwine.

Victoria-bred Major Turley was third.

Krusher Crushed But Still Wins

"The Krusher" was crushed, literally, but it still paid off in victory in the main event of Saturday's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

Krusher Kowalski won on a disqualification when rival Karol Kalmikoff was disqualified for hitting his rival over the head with a steel chair.

In other bouts, Roy McClarty and Doug Lindsey teamed up to beat Bob Morse and Harizan Potvin in a tag-team match; Bill Wright defeated Danno McDonald, and Lindsey and Morse drew in a preliminary.

Grant Sets Pace In Warm-Up Shoot

Don Grant's 93x100 topped a field of 19 in Saturday's 900-yard practice shoot at Healy Range.

The warmup was a prelude to the third stage of the Weiler Regan Trophy competition, to be fired next weekend.

Pros Hit Hard By Ruling Body

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former U.S. Open champions Tommy Bolt and Dick Mayer joined Sam Snead in pulling out of the $10,000 pro-amateur golf tournament here Sunday after they were suspended and fined by the Professional Golfers Association.

Joe Black, tournament supervisor of the PGA, announced that Snead, Bolt and Mayer along with Chick Harbert, Lew Worsham and Walter Burkemo, had been suspended for six months and fined $500 for playing in the pro-am without permission.

The tournament was won by two-time national amateur champion Jack Nicklaus and his partner, Ohio State coach Bob Kepler.

What effect the suspension ruling will have on Snead's place on the U.S. Ryder Cup team that plays in Britain next month was indefinite. Black said that the case would have to be considered by the PGA's executive committee.

Harbert, Worsham and Burkemo — all veteran pros — decided to continue playing here. Snead, Bolt and Mayer were suspended for playing without the permission of Golf Enterprises Inc., sponsoring group for the Portland Open. PGA rules prohibit any winner of a sanctioned tournament during the past year from playing in an event conflicting with a PGA tournament unless the tournament sponsor and the PGA give approval.

30,000 SALMON SAVED

COURTENAY — An estimated 30,000 pink salmon have been saved from almost certain death in the shallows of Tsolum River north of here.

Fisheries officers worked for hours salvaging the fish which were left stranded in the shallow pools of the river.

The trouble started when a wire fence erected to keep the fish from heading up river to spawning grounds, collapsed under the weight of fallen leaves.

This permitted the fish to head upstream with the tide. At low tide thousands of fish were stranded in shallow pools.

Fisheries officers said it will take three days of good rain to bring the river to the level needed to accommodate the run of pinks.

unidentified guide trying their luck. Fishing was part of an entertainment program arranged by Chamber of Commerce for visit of Premier Bennett and cabinet ministers.

Three Million Blood Transfusions Without Harmful Side Effects

QUALICUM BEACH—There has not been one case of seriously harmful side effects resulting from three million blood transfusions undertaken in Canada, Mr. Justice H. J. Sullivan said here.

President of the Red Cross in B.C., he was speaking to 90 delegates at the annual regional meeting of the Red Cross on Vancouver Island at Qualicum Beach Inn. The meeting was opened officially by Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes, VC.

The vital role played by the Red Cross free blood transfusion service in the field of heart surgery was emphasized by Dr. P. A. Ashmore of the Vancouver General Hospital and UBC.

Dr. Ashmore is a member of one of the world's leading open heart surgery teams. He said that to date 400 successful operations of this type have

Penticton Lawyer Seeks Grit Office

PENTICTON (CP)—Lawyer W. A. Gilmour of Penticton Sunday entered the campaign for the presidency of the British Columbia Liberal Association.

Mr. Gilmour, one of four Similkameen association delegates to the party's annual meeting Oct. 13 and 14 in Victoria, will contest the presidency with Hugh Marwell and Jack Taggart, both of Vancouver.

9.30 A.M. Departure

With the end of daylight saving time, the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway train from Victoria to Courtenay and intermediate stations will leave Victoria daily at 9.30 a.m. standard time.

V.I. ROUNDUP

End Fast Time Farmers' Plea

DUNCAN—A resolution requesting abolition of daylight saving time will be submitted by the Coombs Farmers' Institute to the annual meeting of district "A" Farmers' Institutes in Nanaimo Saturday.

The Coombs Institute has also circulated a petition to other farm organizations asking them to support the resolution.

But the resolution is expected to receive only lukewarm support.

Berry farmers, potato growers and people engaged in similar horticultural pursuits are not opposed to daylight saving time.

One of the main reasons some farmers oppose daylight saving time is because it upsets their milking schedules.

The Coombs Institute also endorsed a resolution calling upon the provincial government to create work for all able-bodied men and cease handing out welfare payments "indiscriminately."

The Cobble Hill-Shawigan Institute has called for the destruction of band-tailed pigeons which are attacking crops but are on the protected list. The other wants permission for B.C. feed manufacturers to buy grain direct from grain growers as in Prairie provinces.

NANAIMO — Police here are investigating a brutal attack on an 18-year-old Nanaimo girl Friday night. The girl, whose name has not been released, was admitted to hospital Saturday suffering from cuts to the head.

She was assaulted by a young man, described as being between 18 and 20 years old, of husky build and dressed in rough clothing.

NANAIMO—A newly-formed school of art here has started with an enrolment of 85 pupils.

The school, the only commercial art school on Vancouver Island, teaches oil and water color painting, wood carving and sculpturing.

KYUQUOT—A preliminary survey of the harbor entrance is being made here by federal public works engineers with a view to deepening and widening. At present this entrance is too shallow to admit fish packers and oil tankers except at high tide.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Local archers finished well up in the Vancouver Island division of the Canadian championships.

First half of the contest was held in Campbell River and the second half in Ladysmith. Norma Nanning finished first in the women's freestyle target event and third in the clout. Palmer Bergquist took second place in the men's freestyle field shoot and third in the freestyle target. Sam Nazarek was third in the men's instinctive contest.

Heart Surgery For Child On Tuesday

DUNCAN—A six-year-old girl with a congenital heart condition is waiting in Vancouver General Hospital for a major heart operation which her parents expect to be performed Tuesday by Dr. Ross Robertson of Vancouver.

She is Diane Smithson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smithson of Kokislah.

Mrs. Smithson said the condition is known as a pulmonary valve stenosis or a narrowing of the valve from the main blood vessel that carries the blood to the lungs.

The defect does not restrict Diane's activities but she tires easily.

BLOOD SHORTAGE

A poignant message to blood donors is carried in the fact that there has been a slight delay in the performance of this operation because of insufficient blood at the hospital to match the child's type.

Diane, waiting for her operation, remains a cheerful and happy youngster and her parents hope she will be back at school in good time.

The cost of this operation can vary between $1,500 and $2,000, says Mrs. Smithson. Her husband's medical insurance will provide about $380.

THREE-YEAR-OLD SAFE AFTER NIGHT IN BUSH

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — An overnight search for Debbie Jacobs, 3, ended happily Sunday when the child was found safe.

She disappeared Saturday while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Jacobs, picked apples on Quadra Island. She spent the night in dense bush, dressed only in light clothing.

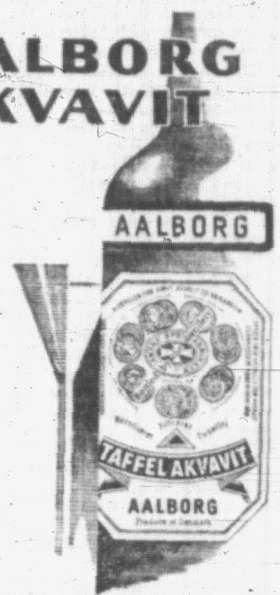

Temperatures overnight dipped to 35. Police and volunteers found her.

In England, on The Continent, and right here in Canada, Anglia repeatedly proves to be the BIG LITTLE CAR. In England for example, gasoline costs the equivalent of 75¢ a gallon. More little cars are sold there than any other place in the world! Anglia outsells every other car regardless of size or make! The reason isn't just economy either. Take style. From gleaming grille to raked-back roof Anglia proves that a little car needn't be homely. As for performance, Anglia's rally-rousing habits are fast becoming legend with automobile men the world 'round. Economy! Style! Performance! Oak Bay to Return To Civil Defence?

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said Friday a special committee will make a recommendation to the council, Oct. 3, on a provincial proposal which would return the municipality to a civil defence organization.

Oak Bay pulled out of the Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board a year ago.

The provincial plan would put 11 municipalities of southern Vancouver Island under co-ordination of a target area director in Duncan with each component appointing its own CD chief for training and planning purposes.

Saanich already has implemented the plan. Mayor Percy Scurrell said he has asked Greater Victoria co-ordinator Commodore Val Godfrey to make a report on the proposal.

'DON'T PHONE'

Pocket Cards Detail Bomb Defence

A steady signal of three minutes or more on sirens, whistles, horns or similar devices will be the alert warning of an enemy attack. It is stated on a wallet card published by the B.C. government.

The card states: After the warning, civilians should listen to their local radio stations for instructions.

"Know your local civil defence emergency plan. Obey police and civil defence instructions. Do not use the telephone.

"Do not become panicky if your radio is silent for a short time. This may be due to the establishment of the emergency broadcast system."

The Take Cover Warning (says the card) will be an undulating or warbling signal, or a series of short blasts, of three minutes duration on sirens, whistles, horns or similar devices.

This will be sounded when any local target is considered in imminent danger of attack. It will be broadcast and signalled about 30 minutes before the arrival of manned bombers, or when a missile is detected.

On hearing the signal or radio message, civilians should proceed at once to the best available shelter. If at home, they should go into a bomb shelter immediately.

"If you have none, shut all outside doors and windows and take cover in the basement or an interior first-floor room."

"If outdoors at the time, seek the best available cover. Stay put until you get word to come out. If you see a bright flash of light, take cover immediately."

"Protect yourself from fall-out."

36,000 BOARD FEET NETS MERE $86

Challenge Hurlled at UBC By Woodcutting Students

By LESLIE MILLEN
Times College Correspondent

Nearly 300 Victoria College students cut up 36,000 board feet of driftwood Saturday afternoon at Willows Beach, donating it to the public as firewood in exchange for donations to the United Appeal.

For their pains, they netted the sum of $88. The students' council will add $12 to make the donation $100.

Within their self-imposed one-hour time limit—they have issued a challenge to the University of British Columbia to saw as much in the same time—they hucked enough lumber to build two houses, using power saws and hand-operated cross-cut saws.

WELL ORGANIZED
The secret to their system was organization.

A pre-arranged plan had students divided into teams who set up the logs for sawing, split the sawn logs, and stacked them in the waiting cars for the 1,000 Victorians who took advantage of the unique opportunity.

Six power saws were in continuous operation, with only skilled operators allowed to handle them. Crosscut saws, and even a tiny sweepgaw also appeared, operated by alternating teams.

Only evidence of disorganization was among the fans on

Sprays, Highway Crashes More Lethal Than Fallout

CHICAGO (UPI)—A radiation expert said Saturday people should be more alarmed over hazards of chemical sprays and auto crashes than nuclear fallout.

Well-Meaning 'Bomb-Banners' Criticized

TORONTO (CP)—An Anglican clergyman who served in the RCAF in the Second World War has deplored the effect of "pathetic" ban-the-bomb demonstrators in weakening the free world against possible nuclear aggression.

Rev. Denton Massey warned at a Battle of Britain commemorative dinner that the same "it-can't-happen-here" policy that weakened Britain before Munich is weakening the free world.

There will be no repetition of the miracle of the Battle of Britain to save the free world in another war, he told members of the Toronto inter-wing committee of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association.

Mr. Massey, a wartime group captain, said it is incredible that even "in this hour of crisis there are those... well-meaning but oh, such tragic people, pathetic people, unrealistic people, who stage mass demonstrations against the development of the only means we know of to defend ourselves against nuclear annihilation."

5 Die as Bridge Falls

ROME (AP)—A 1,500-foot bridge built for Italy's north-south Highway of the Sun collapsed Sunday, killing five workmen and injuring five. Another workman escaped death by clinging for half an hour to the bent iron framework 75 feet in the air.

There are other things much more toxic than fallout," said Dr. John E. Rose, director of radiological physics at Argonne National Laboratory.

"Lead in food, from sprays, has a far greater effect," he said. "Certainly it shortens life more, statistically."

Government agencies have reported an increase in radiation since the Soviet Union resumed the testing of nuclear weapons.

"The present rate of radiation increase is less than 2 per cent from natural radiation," Rose said in a telephone interview. "It's a very small increase."

By contrast, the nuclear physicist said, a person moving from Chicago to Denver would receive about 25 or 30 per cent more radiation, because the natural cosmic radiation increases with altitude.

Rose, 57, Downers Grove, Ill., worked on the first atom bomb project at the University of Chicago during the Second World War. He was section chief of the metallurgical laboratory's health division. A native of Pittsburgh, suburb of Wilkesburg, he was graduated in 1927 from the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He is a member of the National Committee on Radiation Protection.

Radiation received from Soviet fallout is a very small fraction of the normal radiation Americans receive every day, he said.

Rose said radium is present in the dirt in any backyard. He said one gram of radium could be extracted from two square miles of soil six inches deep.

Since water "percolates" through the earth, it contains a small amount of radium which is deposited in people's bones, he said.

Every person has about 150 grams of natural potassium in his body, he said. Potassium, which is essential to life, gives the muscles an annual dose of radiation.

Fat contains Carbon 14, which also is radioactive, he said. The dose a person receives from Carbon 14 alone is three or four times larger than what is picked up from fallout, he said.

Smoke, fumes and chemicals accepted as part of industrial development have a far greater effect on the national's health than does fallout, Rose said.

QUEEN NINA... she'll miss us

'GUESS I'M JUST A HOME-TOWN GIRL' SAYS MISS CANADA

Big Sendoff for Sad But Happy Nina

The "Queen" was given a warm send-off.

Terminal at Patricia Bay Airport was crammed with well-wishers Sunday as 18-year-old Nina Holden left for Hamilton to take up her duties as the new Miss Canada.

Less than 24 hours previously she was notified by the board of directors of the Miss Canada pageant that she had been declared the new title holder.

The previous holder, 20-year-old Connie Gail Feller, of Ottawa, was disqualified Saturday.

Various reasons were advanced by pageant officials for her dethronement, including "parental interference" and failure to live up to her contract.

DIDN'T APPEAR

Mrs. Edna C. Weaver, wife of executive director S. Radcliffe Weaver, and herself prominent in pageant organization, said in Hamilton Sunday Miss Feller had failed to appear at a scheduled appointment with the T. Eaton Company, Sept. 1, and had "jeopardized our friendship" with Eaton's.

Mrs. Weaver said that, in addition, an unidentified national sponsor of Miss Canada scholarships had withdrawn from sponsorship as a result of the Sept. 1 incident.

JEWISH HOLIDAYS

In Toronto, J. Rodney Inge, a former public relations counsellor for the pageant, said one reason for Miss Feller's disqualification was that she wanted to observe the Jewish high holidays despite commitments the pageant made for her.

He said his firm had severed connection with the pageant.

Mrs. Weaver said pageant officials had "very willingly cancelled" some time ago any commitment which interfered with Miss Feller's observance of the Jewish holidays.

NO INTERFERENCE

Miss Feller's father said in Ottawa he didn't have "the foggiest idea what it's all about," but he denied any interference and said his daughter had kept all her commitments.

Raven-haired Nina is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Holden, 645 Foster. Born in Scotland, she came to Canada in 1950, living in Ontario before coming here in 1958.

STENOGRAPHER

She graduated from Victoria High School this summer but returned there a few weeks ago to take up work as a stenographer.

She won the title of Miss Victoria at the Jaycee exhibition in May.

When the board's decision was made Saturday, Nina appeared both happy and sad.

"Of course I'm happy to get the title, but I don't want to leave my home and family," she said.

It is likely she won't return to Victoria until Christmas.

"And while it's a great honor to be Miss Canada I am really much prouder to be Miss Victoria. I guess I'm just a home-town girl."

Her first appearance after receiving the title was at the installation banquet of the president of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Saturday.

She received a standing ovation.

MAYOR ATTENDS

Mayor Percy Scurrell congratulated her and said "all this could have been avoided if the Miss Canada judges had made the right decision last month."

Nina was runner-up in the national finals at Burlington, Ont., Aug. 11.

She will continue to hold the title of Miss Victoria but her princesses, Audrey Thornton and Mariela Schwagly, will share her duties while she is away.

The mayor and Mrs. Scurrell were at the airport Sunday to see the Victoria girl off, and Nina received a bouquet from "Miss Sidney," 18-year-old Linda Orchard.

Time Running Out For Civic Voters

Final week for registration of new civic voters began today.

Only those on the voters' list by Saturday will be able to cast ballots in civic elections Dec. 14.

Two Arrested In Safe Theft

Police Act Quickly After Tip

Two men were arrested by city detectives Sunday afternoon after the discovery of an abandoned safe earlier in the day.

A small metal safe was found on Munn Road at about 6.30 a.m. still warm from being opened by a cutting torch in the hands of thieves who had taken it from the Independent Order of Foresters, 2618 Quadra, Saturday night.

In city police court today Richard Allan Main, 903 North Park, and Stanley Charles Rife, 706 Craigflower, were remanded to Oct. 2 for election after being charged with breaking and entering and theft.

MONEY BANKED

An eight-inch hole had been cut in the bottom of the safe. The dial had been knocked off and door pin removed.

Officials of the IOOF said most of the organization's money had been banked Friday afternoon but some had been left in the safe.

Original estimates of this amount ran to $300 but they were not certain.

There were no signs of forcible entry but it was believed an open transom above the door was used by the thieves.

COACH ROBBED

Early this morning a prowler entered the room of Roy MacBride, Bel Isle Motel, 427 Belleville, and took $350.

Mr. McBride, general manager and coach of the Spokane Comets Hockey Club, told police the money, in $5, $10 and $20 denominations, was in a brown money clip in his trousers pocket.

Also taken was a leather case containing credit cards and driver's licence.

Sunday at 11.15 p.m. city police were called to the Begbie Street Store, 1696 Stanley, where three youths had been seen "acting suspiciously."

On arrival, detectives found cigarettes and possibly some soft drinks had been taken.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

North Victoria Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Tally-Ho Hotel. Leslie Moutray, B.C. Forest Service, "The Mud-Slingers."

WOMEN PROTEST PILEDRIVER'S ARRIVAL

Sea-Going Pickets Glare

The battle of the log booms flared anew today — and this time it was fought at sea.

The women of View Royal took to their rowboats to "picket" a piledriver which was installing dolphins on Esquimalt harbor this morning.

The dolphins are to prepare the harbor for log booms to be brought in this fall by the Greater Victoria Mill Operators' Association, a group of five local lumber companies.

More than 100 View Royal residents last October attended a public hearing when the operators applied to the provincial government for a foreshore lease in the harbor.

They protested that a new lease in the inner part of the harbor would ruin all recreation as well as the view.

The government took the matter under advisement.

But now the five companies have obtained a lease on a narrow strip of water further out in the mouth of the harbor which links two other leased areas into one big booming ground.

All three leases were granted by the federal government. The mill owners, said a spokesman today had not used their two separate leases earlier because of the strip of water in between.

HAD AUTHORITY

"We aren't out of line; we had the proper authority from the federal department of transport to drive pilings," he added.

"We don't want to get in a controversy," he said, "but our leases are in good standing."

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said the dolphins were not being driven in any provincial foreshore area.

"There has been no new area allocated by us," he said.

But the women have not given up.

WORRIED ABOUT SMELL

They say that even the work now being done will virtually ruin water skiing and swimming. Residents of View Royal also are worried about the smell of logs wafting into their homes.

Aboard the picketing rowboats were Mrs. Margaret Bradfield, Mrs. Elmer Birch, Mrs. Esther Stark and Mrs. G. McGregor, all of whom live on View Royal Avenue.

Mayor Passes Up Chance to Join 'Cluster Club'

Victoria's cluster lights today gave Mayor Percy Scurrell a chuckle and a chance to be a charter member of a lamp post leasers' society.

But the society won't get its membership — only his laughter.

The offer came in a New York public relations firm's invitation to join the International Liverpool Lamp Post Leasing Society, marking erection of an old-style Liverpool, Eng., lamp standard in Liverpool, N.Y., as a publicity stunt by a brewery agency.

Victoria was chosen because its cluster lights are similar to the Liverpool lamp post.

ARMY WORKING TO HUSH UP ITS NEW, NOISY TIME GUN

The Canadian Army at Work Point Barracks is endeavoring to reduce the extra noise of its new "Time Gun."

This is a 105-millimeter artillery gun which recently replaced the ancient six-pounder which had been in service for many years.

The explosion is louder and the firing of the gun at noon and 9 p.m. daily has brought a few complaints from local residents that it is "too loud."

Lane Named To New Job On Centenary

Sam Lane, well-known tourist industry booster, has been appointed chairman of a centennial sub-committee which will co-ordinate efforts of service clubs it was announced today.

"This group was set up because of the great deal of interest shown by the various clubs in the city's centennial celebrations next year," said centennial advisory committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

He said the new sub-committee would seek representatives from all service clubs, fraternal organizations, women's auxiliaries and other groups.

WANT IDEAS

"First of all we want all their ideas for making the centenary a success and secondly we want to encourage them to help us by undertaking centennial projects," said Ald. Edgelow.

Meanwhile, City Hall personnel staff began screening 12 applicants for the job of centennial co-ordinator vacated a week ago by William Dow.

An appointment was not expected until next week when aldermen return from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vernon.

RELAX KIDS, she is not Hayley Mills, the British child film star, despite rumors to the contrary. That's Hayley in the picture being held by 14-year-old Vicky Bell. There is a resemblance but, the fact is, Hayley Mills is not in town under the name of Vicky Bell. Vicky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bell, of Montreal, who are at present staying with relatives in the Uplands area. As soon as Vicky appeared at Oak Bay Junior High School, however, the cry went up "Hayley Mills is in town." The Bells have been besieged with telephone calls and so has the "Ask The Times" column. This is the answer. (Times photo.)

Mission to Moscow Suggested By Bonner to 'Voice of Women'

Fifty women brought a Peace mission to the B.C. government today, part of a nationwide campaign for a World Peace Year.

The women were members of the "Voice of Women" which was founded in Canada after collapse of the summit meeting of world leaders at Paris last year.

Petitions were being presented at all provincial capitals, including a submission to Prime Minister Diefenbaker at Ottawa, today.

The Victoria brief was heard by Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Five executive members of the B.C. division of "Voice of Women" attended the interview while a crowd of other women waited on the steps of the Douglas Building, bearing placards and information literature.

PUSHED BUGGIES

Some brought their children; some pushed baby buggies.

"We were received very graciously," said one of the five executive members.

Mr. Peterson said afterwards "the Voice of Women throughout the world would certainly have a great influence on the statesmen charged with the responsibility of international negotiations."

"I have no hesitation in offering my full support to their cause."

He said he and Mr. Bonner had given them two suggestions for furthering their work.

One is for an essay contest in B.C. schools on the subject of ways to achieve peace. This will be considered by the education department, said Mr. Peterson.

Mr. Bonner suggested the organization should send a mission to Moscow where a world's fair is planned for the near future.

Said Mr. Peterson: "Their organization has a great potential particularly if they can interest the mothers and ladies in Russia."

The five executive women who saw the cabinet ministers were Mrs. Brock Chisholm of Victoria; Mrs. R. C. McMordie, president of the Victoria branch of the Voice of Women; Mrs. G. W. Kissick of Vancouver; Mrs. T. M. Chalmers, vice-president of the provincial executive, and Mrs. Walter McDonald of Vancouver.

There are 200 Voice of Women members in Southern Vancouver Island. National membership is more than 5,000.

Death Strikes Old Friends

Two old friends died within minutes of each other in Victoria Sunday.

They were Mrs. Ada Foster, 66, of 643 Langford Street, and Andrew Bugslag, 72, of 943 Fullerton Avenue.

Tragically, Mrs. Foster and her husband, George, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bugslag at their home when Mr. Bugslag collapsed and died.

Mrs. Foster rushed to the phone to call a doctor and then fell to the floor. She, too, was dead.

"It was a terrible coincidence," a friend said. "The two couples had visited each other for years and travelled around together."

Joint funeral services for both deceased will be held in Sands Memorial Chapel Wednesday at 1 p.m., with Rev. J. M. Alexander and Rev. J. A. Roberts officiating.

Cremation will follow.

Voice of Women delegation parades outside Legislative Buildings today.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Be a Fashion Plate Model In These Exciting Sets

By PENNY SAVER

Now that the yellow and blue "fresh" hats and placards are discarded at Victoria College, feminine students can get down to the serious business of study—both of books and fashions! For those who still like to look glamorous even when studying at home, a set of the cotton knit co-ordinates that have just arrived in town would be ideal. They have slim lines that are flatteringly tailored and fully lined with matching tops, styled with a shirt collar and three-quarter-length sleeves.

Colors of mauve, black and green are cleverly blended in a smart design that's the epitome of good taste. Sets are selling in small, medium and large sizes and cost $7.95.

Ask any girl on the campus what's the most comfortable outfit and she'll tell you a shift and sweater. And some of the nicest skirts I've seen for a long time are a positive "steal" at $8.95. They're in pure wool and have the popular boxed pleats.

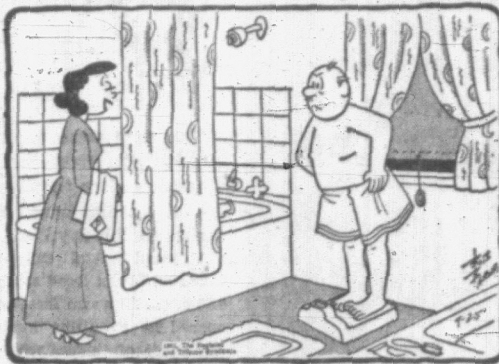

Naturally, the "hit" shade of the season, magenta, is included in the color selection that also has gold, black, forest green and grey.

Just to keep little sister in the picture, after you've finished your shopping pick her up one of the packages of 16-ponytail holders that sell at 25 cents. She'll love them—they'll keep her pony tail neat and in place all day long. Holders are made of rubber and have a neat arrowhead that locks hair in place when slipped through loop at the other end.

College students who are anxious to qualify for title of "best dressed girl" should phone Penny at EV 2-3131 for further details.

DEAR ABBY

Get Going, Son

-By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 19, in the service and in trouble. I have less than four months to go here, but I almost hate to go home. I have been writing to two girls back there who expect to marry me when I return.

I have dated both of them, but have never discussed marriage with either one. (But I did get carried away in some of my letters.) One of the girls wrote that she will be "ready" when I get home. I would like to know what she will be ready for. The other girl wrote that we could live with her parents until I get a job and we could get a place of our own. Both girls are attractive and intelligent, but I don't want to marry either one. What do I do now?

STUCK WITH TWO: DEAR TWO: Since you "proposed" to both girls by mail, you had better do some creative writing fast. Tell them both that because marriage is a permanent step, before they make any plans they should wait until you get home. Put a chill on both deals now, or when you get home, the quiet of the service will look good to you.

DEAR ABBY: You brought up an interesting subject in the case of the husband who refused to wear a wedding ring. I think all married people should be forced by law to wear identification of their married status. Then single girls would not be taken in by two-timing husbands, and vice-versa.

MARCIA.

DEAR MARCIA: Legal gimmicks are no substitute for conscience and morality. A wedding ring doesn't always stop the "circulation."

DEAR ABBY: I agree with your reply to Mrs. Citizen that "many mothers, in their well-meaning eagerness to make their daughters popular, encourage them to grow up too fast."

Thank heaven my mother was wiser than that. I am 18 and am a freshman at college. When I started my teens I was far from the first girl in my crowd to wear make-up, nylons and heels. I didn't get to go to all the parties, and was never Miss Popularity or anything near it. At first it bothered me, but I soon found out there were more rewarding things, such as the faith my parents had in me to live by their high standards. I don't smoke and they know I won't. I don't drink and they trust me not to start. They never doubt my word because they know I wouldn't deceive them. Although I think your advice is very good, Abby, I am glad I never had to ask for it.

Love, BONNIE.

Kenneth MacLaren, the Vancouver Island Distributor of Acousticon Hearing Aids, recently returned from Eastern Canada and the U.S. While attending a Company convention in New York, he was presented with the Award as Best Acousticon Dealer of Canada by Mr. Malte J. Carlson, President of Acousticon Diagraph Co. Ltd.

Following the Convention, Mr. MacLaren spent considerable time inspecting the operations at the all new Acousticon Factory at Danbury, Connecticut. This modern, 60,000 sq. ft. plant provides another forward step in Acousticon's 60-year crusade to improve the lot of the Hard of Hearing.

In commenting on his visit, Mr. MacLaren particularly stressed the dedicated enthusiasm of the Danbury personnel and the exacting care and accuracy in, not only the manufacture of the aids, but the testing and retesting of all minute electronic component parts at each stage of the operation.

The highlight of Kenneth MacLaren's report is the combination of Acousticon Engineering Know-How and the designing skill of the famous Raymond Lowry Co., resulting in a totally new conception of Eyeglass Hearing Aids. He feels this move will combine to keep Acousticon the Leader by supplying an Aid with all the smart appearance of Modern Eye Glasses coupled with improved Hearing efficiency and great diversification in the use of this instrument.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Do You 'Attack' Day of Duties? Take Your Time—Pause, Reflect

The average woman awakes about seven in the morning. After taking a good look at the next 12 or 14 hours of household duties, it's a wonder she ever gets out of bed.

Most women tense up immediately just thinking about all they must accomplish. They begin the day much like a race horse does a race, or they attack it like they would a rattle snake. They are tired before they start.

It is a real art to learn to work in a relaxed mood, even though you do have many things you must do. Yet you can get just as much done, do it more efficiently, feel rested at the end of the day and have a lot more fun out of life, if you will learn this art.

If women could just realize that they can accomplish just as much or more in a relaxed, calm mood, it would save them much wear and tear.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Worry," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 64 to Josephine Lowman in care of this paper. Tomorrow: "For Fat on Back Hips, Kneel, Twist Torso."

OTTAWA'S PASS-CATCHING POLITICIAN

HOME AND SCHOOL A WASTE OF TIME, BUT

A Star Weekly writer who served as president of a Home and School Association says they can be a waste of time the way they are run now but they need not be. In a provocative article, he makes specific suggestions as to how "dead duck" Home and School Associations can be changed into vital influences in Canadian life.

NEW FACES FOR OLD

These days it seems that almost all men and women in our culture want to appear younger than they really are. To meet this demand the medical profession has perfected a relatively old technique for removing wrinkles called "face peeling." The doctors call it superficial chemosurgery. It can make you look younger but it's dangerous in the hands of the medically untrained.

There's a wide variety of articles, features, fiction, picture stories and colour comics in every issue of the Star Weekly; good reading to fit every mood, for every member of the family. Week after week there is no greater—no nicer reading value than the Star Weekly.

New Quebec Law Permits Woman To Head School Commission

ST. RAPHAEL, Que. (CP)—Mrs. Adelard Jolin, a widow whose three children have died, is the first woman in the history of Quebec province to become chairman of a school commission.

She became chairman of the commission in this village of 1,100 as the result of a new provincial law permitting women property owners to vote and to stand for election to school commissions.

Owner of a 100-year-old home in this Bellechasse County village, 20 miles east of Quebec City, where she and her mother were born, Mrs. Jolin stood for election and won. A few days later she was unanimously named chairman by the other commissioners.

A widow since 1955, Mrs. Jolin lost her third child, a 19-year-old daughter who had been an invalid all her life, last February.

"It was after the death of my husband and my two other children that I started to be interested in parish affairs," said Mrs. Jolin, a slim, bespectacled woman.

Mrs. Jolin is already president of the Federation of Farm Circles for Bellechasse and Dorchester Counties and secretary-treasurer of an old people's home she helped start.

She says she's not quite sure how she became president of the school commission whose function is to handle the administration end of education.

"To tell the truth, events pushed me towards one thing, then I was dragged towards another and all that I hope is that I will never fail those who have given me their confidence."

In office for a three-year term, she says she wants to see the village children receive more education and better facilities.

"There is an enormous task awaiting us, but the people of the village are well disposed to give us their entire co-operation."

This Reducing Plan Really Works

"The Naran Plan is what I have been hoping for. I was just about convinced that I was fat for life when a friend told me about your plan. To my surprise I began to get results at the end of the first week and have been losing ever since. I am sure that I can now keep my weight where I want it." — W. Montgomery, Montreal, P.Q.

Overweight people generally fall into two classes, those who have tried to reduce and failed and those who have never tried at all. You do not have to be in either group. Make up your mind that you are no longer going to suffer the discomfort and embarrassment of being overweight. You are not far from a drug store, walk over and ask for the Naran Plan and begin today to lose weight while eating three meals a day. It is that simple, after you have lost weight you will wonder why you didn't do it sooner.

'Old Girls' Reunion

Eighty-four "old girls" of St. George's School gathered in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church hall on Saturday for a reunion and buffet luncheon.

"Why I haven't seen you since..." and "You have not changed a bit!" replaced conventional greetings.

Although Victoria has no local association, Saturday's "get-together" might well be the forerunner of many to come, judging by the enthusiasm of those who attended.

Luncheon meeting, suggested by the Vancouver association of the school, was arranged by five local "old girls." They were Mrs. Margaret (Campbell) Tyson, convener; Mrs. Dorothy (Norris) Aylard, Mrs. Mona (Miller) Tomalin, Mrs. Cecily (Vincent) Foot and Mrs. Lois (Gale) Scott-Moncrieff.

Twenty-one came from Vancouver, including the mainland president, Mrs. Jill (Lloyd Young) Walters. Only Seattle visitor was Miss P. (Primmy) Adamson.

From Up-Island came Mrs. Joyce (Wilson) Corfield and Mrs. Greta (Dunn) Poole, both of Duncan; Mrs. Rachel (Wilson) Corfield, Courtenay, and Mrs. Ulrica (Norrie) Leney, Cowichan Station.

Special guests were Miss M. Ashworth, member of the original teaching staff, and Mrs. Lotus (Griffiths) Cameron, the school's first "head girl." They were presented with corsages in the school's colors, red and white.

Mrs. Dorothy (Aytton) Hagen donated and arranged the floral arrangements of daisies in fall tones.

St. George's School, situated on Rockland Avenue, was open from 1906 to 1928. The late Mrs. H. W. Suttie was head mistress.

It was the only girls' private school in Victoria to include cricket on its sports program.

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

WELL, KIDS, good old Uncle Bob has up and left us.

No, he's not mad at us, at Channel 6 Circus, at CHEK-TV, or at Uncle Dave Armstrong. Uncle Bob isn't mad at anybody.

Like other 36-year-old uncles-sometimes get. Uncle Bob became sort of restless and wondered if he wouldn't do better at a larger station in a larger city. So when he received an offer from CHAN-TV—that's Channel 8—in Vancouver, he accepted because as everyone knows, TV Uncle Bobs can't remain Uncle Bobs forever.

But Bob McGavin left quite a record at CHEK-TV. In the approximately 18 months since he started with Channel 6 Circus he handled an average of better than 20 children a day who appeared on his show. And if his arithmetic is correct and there are five "Circus" days a week and 78 weeks in a year-and-a-half then Uncle Bob was host to almost 8,000 children in that time.

And the mail he received. They tell me at CHEK that it meant opening better than 200 envelopes each month. These contained dates of birthdays to be entered in his "Birthday Book" as well as "thank-you" notes for the enjoyment received from the show.

Strangely enough, the bulk of the letters were not from Victoria but from Vancouver where Uncle Bob enjoyed a huge viewing audience. The letters also came from up-land points, from the lower mainland and such U.S. places as Port Angeles.

Of course Uncle Bob didn't become a good uncle by accident. He has had lots of practice. Before coming to Victoria for CHEK-TV he was at Vancouver radio station CKWX for six years, and before that he worked in Edmonton. In short, Uncle Bob McGavin is a pro.

His place will be taken here, starting today, by Dawn Draper who will be known to you as Dode Dimples.

Federal Election Issue
Tory Record Says Pearson

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson, national Liberal Party leader, says the real issue of the next federal general election would be the record of the Conservative government in the last four years.

Mr. Pearson told the Canadian Young Liberal Federation national convention Saturday that the Conservative record is "unparalleled in our history, is one of ducking decisions, delay, indecision, fumbling and appointing royal commissions."

"A new Liberal government will get things going again," Ross Thatcher, Saskatchewan Liberal party leader, in an address attacked the New Democratic Party and "the 17-year socialist experiment in Saskatchewan."

Mr. Thatcher, a former CCF member of parliament, said the NDP leaders are all old CCF leaders and are still making the same claims and promises of the CCF party.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal party is prepared to fight an election as soon as possible and would welcome the opportunity.

The national Liberal leader referred to a report from Ottawa there would be a federal general election Nov. 27.

Mr. Pearson commented:

"As far as I am concerned, it's only a rumor that there will be an election in November on the issue of nuclear armament of Canadian forces."

"I don't know anything about it—two or three months ago there was going to be an election on the issue of Senate reform."

"If this rumor is serious, and on such an issue, we Liberals welcome it—and as soon as possible."

Mr. Pearson contended that Canada's "constructive influence" in world affairs must be rebuilt "for the security of Canadians and for the sake of peace, freedom and progress everywhere."

Double 'Win' For Dime Parking Fee
City officials claim both objectives of the doubled parking meter rate have been achieved. Revenue from meters has gone up about 50 per cent and a 25 per cent cut in street parkers has been estimated. Revenue rate was reported to be at the $18,000 a month level, compared with $12,000 a year ago.

DRIVEN AWAY
Mayor Percy Scurrell also estimated the 10-cent-an-hour rate has driven about 400 "meter feeders" on to off-street parking lots. He added there had been no complaints from merchants of lost customers. Sharpest example of the higher rate's deterrent power to all-day parkers is the civic parking lot on Cormorant—a favorite area for meter feeders. The increase cuts its occupancy rate in half, from 60 to 30 per cent.

'GOOD FORM' SAYS GROMYKO

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—After President Kennedy's speech to the United Nations General Assembly today, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko shook hands with him and declared: "You were in good form."

Gromyko appeared in high spirits.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD:

CUSTODIAN OF THE PEACE

(The story of Dag Hammarskjold, who died tragically a week ago, is very much the story of the cold war. In recent years, today The Times begins a series on the life and times of this world figure, based on a book by Joseph Lash, a veteran journalist, which has been released in advance following Hammarskjold's death. It will continue daily.)

By JOSEPH P. LASH

In the spacious, rose-carpeted office that houses the U.S. Secretary of State, the telephone rang. It was the end of March, 1953, and John Foster Dulles, its new occupant was conferring with H. Freeman "Doc" Matthews, acting deputy undersecretary and formerly in charge of the European desk, and Paul H. Nitze, head of the Policy Planning Committee but about to leave the Government.

Dulles listened, put down the receiver and turned to the two men: "That's Cabot Lodge. He tells me they have suggested a fellow by the name of Hammarskjold and Vishinsky has accepted."

"If you can get him, grab him," Doc Matthews commented.

Nitze recalled having dealt with Hammarskjold in 1946 when the Swedish-U.S. trade agreement was re-negotiated at Sweden's request.

Sweden had run into a foreign exchange crisis and needed relief. He had never seen a better organized collection of data or a more excellent presentation of a complex problem, Nitze told Dulles.

Dulles' mystification at the name of Hammarskjold did not exceed that of his delegation in New York when French Representative Henri Hoppenot first brought up the name and said Vishinsky had indicated he was acceptable.

Lodge moved fast. A decision had to be taken so promptly he did not have an opportunity to meet with the Latin-American group, as he later explained to complaining diplomats from that group.

'Who Is This Guy?' Ask Americans

HAMMARSKJOLD
... Vishinsky accepted.

Lie's Boldness Upset, U.K., France

These qualities, while they left some questions among the Americans, were precisely the ones that recommended Hammarskjold to his British and French sponsors. They had not been enthusiasts of the bold political initiatives taken by Trygve Lie.

They wanted to get back to the tradition established by Sir Eric Drummond at the League of Nations: High level administration, behind the scenes conciliation, no speaking out in public on behalf of an international point of view. While the UN charter, unlike the League's, specifically conferred on the secretary-general the right to take his own initiative in matters threatening peace and security, Britain and France would have preferred more restraint on Lie's part in asserting a political role.

"I wasn't happy with the British on several occasions," Lie later commented. "They were very much disappointed

When Hoppenot, backed immediately by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, suggested Hammarskjold, members of the U.S. delegation went out to canvass their Scandinavian colleagues asking, "Who is this guy?"

They were surprised to learn that "this guy" had just recently been in New York heading the Swedish delegation in the opening weeks of the second part of the 7th General Assembly.

The dossier that was amassed, from Americans who had dealt with him chiefly in Marshall Plan negotiations in Europe, as well as Europeans, showed a Swedish civil service aristocrat, gifted administratively, unobtrusive rather than flamboyant, a brilliant technician and executive rather than a political leader, and, some feared, a compromiser rather than a fighter.

'GUNBOAT DIPLOMACY'

Women in rowboats today picketed piers in Esquimalt harbor which was driving dolphins for a log boom. The three boats are owned by View

'Slow Negotiation' Beats Quick War—K

BONN (AP)—Premier

Khrushchev removed the end-of-the-year deadline for a treaty with East Germany in his talks with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, diplomatic sources reported today.

Khrushchev was reported to have told Spaak that the Soviet Union prefers slow negotiations to a quick war, these sources said.

Spaak reported to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last Thursday on his five-hour talks with Khrushchev in Moscow on the previous Tuesday.

Khrushchev was said to have told Spaak he never had committed himself to signing a peace treaty with East Germany before the end of this year.

EXPRESS SURPRISE

German officials expressed surprise at this. On several occasions Khrushchev has declared that he will sign a treaty with East Germany before the end of the year, turning over control of access to West Berlin to the East German Communist regime unless the West agrees to a German peace on his terms.

Diplomats said they understood the Spaak report to mean that Khrushchev now proposes to delay signing an East German peace treaty if negotiations are under way by the end of the year.

Khrushchev also was reported to have told Spaak he was ready to discuss with the Western powers other subjects beside Berlin and Germany.

WERE NOT OPTIMISTIC

One West German official said Khrushchev's line in talks with Spaak, a former secretary-general of NATO, was "most conciliatory." West German officials were not optimistic, however, despite Spaak's report.

"We heard the message," said one, "but we don't believe it. He has taken on the face of a mild and compromising person for this occasion."

Diplomats said that despite Khrushchev's relatively mild attitude, he remained firm against including the status of East Berlin in any East-West negotiations. He took the line that East Berlin is the capital of East Germany and cannot be discussed.

HUNTERS' PLANE FLIPS IN LAKE; ONE DEAD

VANCOUVER (CP)—One man was killed and another battled his way to safety during the weekend when a light seaplane crashed into Dorothy Lake, 140 miles north of here.

Killed was owner-pilot Melvin Curran of Vancouver. His plane, loaded with meat after a hunting trip, overturned when Curran attempted to take off on the Cariboo district lake Saturday.

Everett Abbey, also of Vancouver, fought clear of the wreckage and swam to shore. He suffered minor injuries and was flown here Sunday aboard a B.C. Airlines plane.

Both men were Canadian Pacific Airlines pilots.

Auto Crash In Cariboo Kills Three

100-MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)—Three persons died when a car wrapped itself around a power pole 1 1/2 miles north of this Cariboo community early Sunday.

Three passengers were killed outright. The driver and a male passenger were in critical condition in Williams Lake, B.C. hospital today and a teenage girl was in fair condition with head injuries in Ashcroft Hospital.

Dead are Ardith Lindsay, 21, of Lac la Hache, B.C.; Juanita Capnerhurst, 16, Williams Lake, and Kenneth Clark, 28, of Fredericton, N.B.

Police said the car swerved out of control on a gradual curve, skidded across Highway 97, jumped a ditch and smashed into the pole, bringing down a 60,000-volt line. Electrical service here was out more than four hours before workmen repaired the break.

HOLDS JOB

DECISION to reappoint Donald Gordon as head of the publicly-owned CNR has been reached by the federal government, it was reported in Ottawa today. A government source said the decision had been reached over objections of parliamentary criticism but with the approval of railway union chiefs. Appointment will be for a three-year term at a salary of $75,000 a year.

CANADA STAND ON A-ARMS SUPPORTED

OTTAWA (CPL)—One point in President Kennedy's disarmament proposals, presented today to the United Nations, indicates anew that there will be no Canadian decision on acquisition of nuclear weapons at least until the UN General Assembly has discussed disarmament.

The point: "Prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not now own them."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Sept. 20 that the Canadian government doesn't wish any decision it may take on nuclear arms "to impede in any way any substantial progress which may be possible in disarmament or limitation on the spread of nuclear weapons to the independent control of countries not already having them."

Canada was consulted on and approved President Kennedy's disarmament proposals.

GENEVA (Reuters)—An international conference of scientists here has called for an immediate agreement to halt nuclear tests, recognition of the two Germanys and neutral free-city status for West Berlin.

Whites Fear Invasion; Flee Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—White refugees continued to stream out of Elisabethville today as fears mounted that the Congolese central government was planning to invade Katanga.

Widespread reports here say invasion plans were well under way following the United Nations' failure to end Katanga's secession after an eight-day battle that ended in a cease-fire last Wednesday.

More than 350 persons—most of them Belgian families—got out of Elisabethville Sunday, crossing the border into Northern Rhodesia in cars piled high with family possessions.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has sent 80 more military personnel to the Congo to assist the United Nations force there, Defence Minister Harkness announced today in the Commons.

This brings the total Canadian contingent to 350. Parliament authorized a total of up to 500.

The new personnel will be air and ground crew for two C-119 Flying Boxcar transport planes from Downsview, Ont., and 12 additional technicians.

The two planes left Sunday for the Congo.

'Must Reject Threat of Force'

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—President Kennedy told the United Nations today the United States has "both the will and the weapons" to resist aggression and challenged the Communist world to drop the arms race in favor of a "peace race."

The president, in an address alternately tough and conciliatory, told the Soviet Union the U.S. believes a peaceful agreement is possible for the world crisis over divided Berlin. But he added that threat of force must be rejected, because "yielding to threats can only lead to war."

The president's address covered the broad spectrum of crises confronting a frightened world. He proposed a six-point disarmament plan and called for the creation of a UN peace force.

Kennedy urged the small nations to rally behind the UN and defeat Soviet efforts to impose a "troika" system of three-man control over its police power.

The troika, he said, would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis and confidence with gross confusion."

The president told the 99th General Assembly, in a speech carried live by radio and television, that the UN's life is at stake in the issue raised by the death in Africa of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. He urged new strength and new roles for the UN.

The Soviet delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, listened impassively as Kennedy spoke. It did not join in the applause that dotted the speech. The first came when Kennedy attacked the Soviet troika plan.

Watching the president was his wife, Jacqueline, who sat with white-gloved hands folded across her lap.

The blue-and-gold assembly hall was packed to capacity. There were standees in the public gallery.

He proposed an approach to disarmament which would be both far-reaching and realistic: "It is therefore our intention to challenge the Soviet Union not to an arms race but to a peace race—to advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has actually been achieved. We invite them now to go beyond agreement in principle and to reach agreement on actual plans."

Attacking the Soviet proposal to substitute a three-man executive for a single secretary-general, Kennedy urged strengthening of the charter first of all by selection of an outstanding civil servant to continue Hammarskjold's work.

He pointed to threats to peace in Laos and in Germany. For the first time he personally emphasized in connection with a Soviet-East German pact that "the Western Allies are not concerned with any paper arrangement the Soviets wish to make with a regime of their own creation, on territory occupied by their own troops and governed by their own agents."

ARMS PLAN HIGHLIGHTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The six steps outlined by President Kennedy in the U.S. "new disarmament proposals" are as follows:

"First, signing the test-ban treaty, by all nations. This can be done now. Test-ban negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks."

"Second, stopping the production of fissionable materials for use in weapons, and preventing their transfer to any nation now lacking nuclear weapons."

"Third, prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not now own them."

"Fourth, keeping nuclear weapons from seeding new battle grounds in... space."

"Fifth, gradually destroying existing nuclear weapons and converting their materials to peaceful uses; and,

"Finally, halting the unlimited testing and production of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles, and gradually destroying them as well."

QUEEN NINA ... she'll miss us

'GUESS I'M JUST A HOME-TOWN GIRL' SAYS MISS CANADA

Big Sendoff for Sad But Happy Nina

The "Queen" was given a warm send-off. Terminal at Patricia Bay Airport was crammed with well-wishers Sunday as 18-year-old Nina Holden left for Hamilton to take up her duties as the new Miss Canada.

Less than 24 hours previously she was notified by the board of directors of the Miss Canada pageant that she had been declared the new title holder.

The previous holder, 20-year-old Connie Gail Belle, of Ottawa, was disqualified Saturday.

Various reasons were advanced by pageant officials for her dethronement, including "parental interference" and failure to live up to her contract.

DIDN'T APPEAR Mrs. Edna C. Weaver, wife of executive director S. Radcliffe Weaver, and herself prominent in pageant organization, said in Hamilton Sunday Miss Feller had failed to appear at a scheduled appointment with the T. Eaton Company, Sept. 1, and had "jeopardized our friendship" with Eaton's.

Mrs. Weaver said that, in addition, an unidentified national sponsor of Miss Canada scholarships had withdrawn from sponsorship as a result of the Sept. 1 incident.

JEWISH HOLIDAYS In Toronto, J. Rodney Inge, a former public relations counselor for the pageant, said one reason for Miss Feller's disqualification was that she wanted to observe the Jewish high holidays despite commitments the pageant made for her.

He said his firm had severed connection with the pageant. Mrs. Weaver said pageant officials had "very willingly cancelled" some time ago any commitment which interfered with Miss Feller's observance of the Jewish holidays.

NO INTERFERENCE Miss Feller's father said in Ottawa he didn't have "the foggiest idea what it's all about," but he denied any interference and said his daughter had kept all her commitments.

Raven-haired Nina is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Holden, 645 Foster, born in Scotland, she came to Canada in 1950, living in Ontario before coming here in 1958.

STENOGRAPHER She graduated from Victoria High School this summer but returned there a few weeks ago to take up work as a stenographer.

She won the title of Miss Victoria at the Jaycee exhibition in May.

When the board's decision was made Saturday, Nina appeared both happy and sad.

"Of course I'm happy to get the title, but I don't want to leave my home and family," she said.

It is likely she won't return to Victoria until Christmas.

"And while it's a great honor to be Miss Canada I am really much prouder to be Miss Victoria. I guess I'm just a home-town girl."

Her first appearance after receiving the title was at the installation banquet of the president of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Saturday.

She received a standing ovation.

MAYOR ATTENDS Mayor Percy Scurrell congratulated her and said "all this could have been avoided if the Miss Canada judges had made the right decision last month!"

Nina was runner-up in the national finals at Burlington, Ont., Aug. 11.

She will continue to hold the title of Miss Victoria but her princesses, Audrey Thornton and Marieka Schwagly, will share her duties while she is away.

The mayor and Mrs. Scurrell were at the airport Sunday to see the Victoria girl off, and Nina received a bouquet from "Miss Sidney," 18-year-old Rolinda Orchard.

Final week for registration of new civic voters began today.

Only those on the voters' list by Saturday will be able to cast ballots in civic elections Dec. 14.

Two Arrested In Safe Theft

Police Act Quickly After Tip

Two men were arrested by city detectives Sunday afternoon after the discovery of an abandoned safe earlier in the day.

A small metal safe was found on Munn Road at about 6:30 a.m. still warm from being opened by a cutting torch in the hands of thieves who had taken it from the Independent Order of Foresters, 2618 Quadra, Saturday night.

In city police court today Richard Allan Main, 903 North Park, and Stanley Charles Rife, 706 Craigflower, were remanded to Oct. 2 for election after being charged with breaking and entering and theft.

MONEY BANKED An eight-inch hole had been cut in the bottom of the safe. The dial had been knocked off and door pin removed. Officials of the IOOF said most of the organization's money had been banked Friday afternoon but some had been left in the safe.

Original estimates of this amount ran to $300 but they were not certain.

There were no signs of forcible entry but it was believed an open transom above the door was used by the thieves.

COACH ROBBED Early this morning a prowler entered the room of Roy MacBride, Bel Isle Motel, 427 Belleville, and took $350.

Mr. McBride, general manager and coach of the Spokane Comets Hockey Club, told police the money, in $5, $10 and $20 denominations, was in a brown money clip in his trousers pocket.

Also taken was a leather case containing credit cards and driver's licence.

Sunday at 11:15 p.m. city police were called to the Begbie Street Store, 1605 Stanley, where three youths had been seen "acting suspiciously."

On arrival, detectives found cigarettes and possibly some soda drinks had been taken.

WOMEN PROTEST PILEDRIVER'S ARRIVAL

Sea-Going Pickets Glare

The battle of the log booms flared anew today — and this time it was fought at sea.

The women of View Royal took to their rowboats to "picket" a piledriver which was installing dolphins on Esquimalt harbor this morning.

The dolphins are to prepare the harbor for log booms to be brought in this fall by the Greater Victoria Mill Operators' Association, a group of five local lumber companies.

More than 100 View Royal residents last October attended a public hearing when the operators applied to the provincial government for a shore lease in the harbor.

They protested that a new lease in the inner part of the harbor would ruin all recreation as well as the view.

The government took the matter under advisement.

But now the five companies have obtained a lease on a narrow strip of water further out in the mouth of the harbor which links two other leased areas into one big booming ground.

All three leases were granted by the federal government.

The mill owners, said a spokesman today had not used their two separate leases earlier because of the strip of water in between.

HAD AUTHORITY "We aren't out of line; we had the proper authority from the federal department of transport to drive pilings," he added.

"We don't want to get in a controversy," he said, "but our leases are in good standing."

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said the dolphins were not being driven in any provincial foreshore area.

"There has been no new area allocated by us," he said.

But the women have not given up.

WORRIED ABOUT SMELL They say that even the work now being done will virtually ruin water skiing and swimming. Residents of View Royal also are worried about the smell of logs wafting into their homes.

Aboard the picketing rowboats were Mrs. Margaret Bradfield, Mrs. Elmer Birch, Mrs. Esther Stark and Mrs. G. McGregor, all of whom live on View Royal Avenue.

Meanwhile, City Hall personnel staff began screening 12 applicants for the job of centennial co-ordinator vacated a week ago by William Dow.

An appointment was not expected until next week when aldermen return from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vernon.

Lane Named To New Job On Centenary

Sam Lane, well-known tourist industry booster, has been appointed chairman of a centennial sub-committee which will co-ordinate efforts of service clubs it was announced today.

"This group was set up because of the great deal of interest shown by the various clubs in the city's centennial celebrations next year," said centennial advisory committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

He said the new sub-committee would seek representatives from all service clubs, fraternal organizations, women's auxiliaries and other groups.

WANT IDEAS "First of all we want all their ideas for making the centenary a success and secondly we want to encourage them to help us by undertaking centennial projects," said Ald. Edgelow.

An appointment was not expected until next week when aldermen return from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vernon.

Mission to Moscow Suggested By Bonner to 'Voice of Women'

Fifty women brought a Peace mission to the B.C. government today, part of a nation-wide campaign for a World Peace Year.

The women were members of the "Voice of Women" which was founded in Canada after collapse of the summit meeting of world leaders at Paris last year.

Petitions were being presented at all provincial capitals, including a submission to Prime Minister Diefenbaker at Ottawa, today.

The Victoria brief was heard by Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Five executive members of the B.C. division of "Voice of Women" attended the interview while a crowd of other women waited on the steps of the Douglas Building, bearing placards and information literature.

PUSHED BUGGIES Some brought their children; some pushed baby buggies.

"We were received very graciously," said one of the five executive members.

Mr. Peterson said afterwards "the Voice of Women throughout the world would certainly have a great influence on the statesmen charged with the responsibility of international negotiations."

"I have no hesitation in offering my full support to their cause."

He said he and Mr. Bonner had given them two suggestions for furthering their work.

One is for an essay contest in B.C. schools on the subject of ways to achieve peace. This will be considered by the education department, said Mr. Peterson.

Mr. Bonner suggested the organization should send a mission to Moscow where a world's fair is planned for the near future.

Said Mr. Peterson: "Their organization has a great potential particularly if they can interest the mothers and ladies in Russia."

The five executive women who saw the cabinet ministers were Mrs. Brock Chisholm of Victoria; Mrs. R. C. McMordie, president of the Victoria branch of the Voice of Women; Mrs. G. W. Kissick of Vancouver; Mrs. T. M. Chalmers, vice-president of the provincial executive, and Mrs. Walter McDonald of Vancouver.

There are 200 Voice of Women members in Southern Vancouver Island. National membership is more than 5,000.

Death Strikes Old Friends

Two old friends died within minutes of each other in Victoria Sunday.

They were Mrs. Ada Foster, 66, of 643 Langford Street, and Andrew Bugslag, 72, of 943 Fullerton Avenue.

Tragically, Mrs. Foster and her husband, George, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bugslag at their home when Mr. Bugslag collapsed and died.

Mrs. Foster rushed to the phone to call a doctor and then fell to the floor. She, too, was dead.

"It was a terrible coincidence," a friend said. "The two couples had visited each other for years and travelled around together."

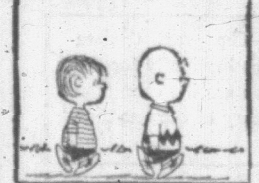

Joint funeral services for both deceased will be held in Sands Memorial Chapel Wednesday at 1 p.m., with Rev. J. M. Alexander and Rev. J. A. Roberts officiating.

Cremation will follow.

Voice of Women delegations parades outside Legislative Buildings today.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD:

CUSTODIAN
PEACE

(The story of Dag Hammarskjöld, who died tragically a week ago, is very much the story of the cold war in recent years. Today The Times begins a series on the life and times of this world figure, based on a book by Joseph Lash, a veteran journalist, which has been released in advance following Hammarskjöld's death. It will continue daily.)

By JOSEPH P. LASH

In the spacious, rose-carpeted office that houses the U.S. Secretary of State, the telephone rang. It was the end of March, 1953, and John Foster Dulles, its new occupant was conferring with H. Freeman "Doc" Matthews, acting deputy undersecretary and formerly in charge of the European desk, and Paul H. Nitze, head of the Policy Planning Committee but about to leave the Government.

Dulles listened, put down the receiver and turned to the two men: "That's Cabot Lodge. He tells me they have suggested a fellow by the name of Hammarskjöld and Vishinsky has accepted."

"If you can get him, grab him," Doc Matthews commented.

Nitze recalled having dealt with Hammarskjöld in 1946 when the Swedish-U.S. trade agreement was re-negotiated at Sweden's request.

Sweden had run into a foreign exchange crisis and needed relief. He had never seen a better organized collection of data or a more excellent presentation of a complex problem, Nitze told Dulles.

'Who Is This Guy?' Ask Americans

HAMMARSKJÖLD
... Vishinsky accepted

When Hoppenot, backed immediately by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, suggested Hammarskjöld, members of the U.S. delegation went out to canvass their Scandinavian colleagues asking, "Who is this guy?"

They were surprised to learn that "this guy" had just recently been in New York heading the Swedish delegation in the opening weeks of the second part of the 7th General Assembly.

The dossier that was amassed, from Americans who had dealt with him chiefly in Marshall Plan negotiating in Europe, as well as Europeans, showed a Swedish civil service aristocrat, gifted administratively, unobtrusive rather than flamboyant, a brilliant technician and executive rather than a political leader, and, some feared, a compromiser rather than a fighter.

Lie's Boldness Upset, U.K., France

These qualities, while they left some questions among the Americans, were precisely the ones that recommended Hammarskjöld to his British and French sponsors. They had not been enthusiasts of the bold political initiatives taken by Trygve Lie.

They wanted to get back to the tradition established by Sir Eric Drummond at the League of Nations: High level administration, behind the scenes conciliation, no speaking out in public on behalf of an international point of view.

While the UN charter, unlike the League's, specifically conferred on the secretary-general the right to take his own initiative in matters threatening peace and security, Britain and France would have preferred more restraint on Lie's part in asserting a political role.

"I wasn't happy with the British on several occasions," Lie later commented. "They were very much disappointed with me. Palestine, Persian oil, to mention just two examples, and I could mention more." The French had "made some difficulties" because of the impact of his blunt-spoken anti-colonialism on French Africa, and also "they didn't like me because I didn't speak French."

Hammarskjöld's name was put forward by the French and seconded by the British. There is some suggestion the proposal originated with the British, and that Sir Anthony Eden, who was then foreign secretary, had a hand in it.

But the British asked the French to take the lead because they were committed to Lester "Mike" Pearson, of Canada. He was already out of humor with his British colleagues because he felt that by rushing a vote on his candidacy they had precipitated a Soviet veto.

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI)—Canada's Nobel Peace Prize winner Lester B. Pearson, leader of the federal Liberal party and Opposition leader in the House of Commons, said here today he was willing to act as an interim secretary-general of the United Nations.

Pearson, a former minister for external affairs told a news conference here today he was "willing to serve" but doubted that he would be called upon to do so. He suggested a member of the Afro-Asian community would be a more likely candidate since Russia would probably veto any man who comes from a NATO power.

Nikita Lifts Deadline
On East German Treaty

BONN (AP)—Premier Khrushchev removed the end-of-the-year deadline for a treaty with East Germany in his talks with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, diplomatic sources reported today.

"Khrushchev was reported to have told Spaak that the Soviet-Union prefers slow negotiations to a quick war," these sources said.

Spaak reported to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last Thursday on his five-hour talks with Khrushchev in Moscow on the previous Tuesday.

Khrushchev was said to have told Spaak he never had committed himself to signing a peace treaty with East Germany before the end of this year.

EXPRESS SURPRISE

German officials expressed surprise at this. On several occasions Khrushchev has declared that he will sign a treaty with East Germany before the end of the year, turning over control of access to West Berlin to the East German Communist regime unless the West agrees to a German peace on his terms.

Diplomats said they understood the Spaak report to mean that Khrushchev now proposes to delay signing an East German peace treaty if negotiations are under way by the end of the year.

Khrushchev also was reported to have told Spaak he was ready to discuss with the Western powers other subjects beside Berlin and Germany.

One West German official said Khrushchev's line in talks with Spaak, a former secretary-general of NATO, was "most conciliatory." West German officials were not optimistic, however, despite Spaak's report.

"We heard the message," said one, "but we don't believe it. He has taken on the face of a mild and compromising person for this occasion."

Diplomats said that despite Khrushchev's relatively mild attitude, he remained firm against including the status of East Berlin in any East-West negotiations. He took the line that East Berlin is the capital of East Germany and cannot be discussed.

In Cariboo
Kills Three

100-MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)

Three persons died when a car wrapped itself around a power pole 1½ miles north of this Cariboo community early Sunday.

Three passengers were killed outright. The driver and a male passenger were in critical condition in Williams Lake, B.C., hospital today and a teenage girl was in fair condition with head injuries in Ashcroft Hospital.

Dead are Ardith Lindsay, 21, of Lac la Hache, B.C.; Juanita Capserhurst, 16, Williams Lake, and Kenneth Clark, 28, of Fredericton, N.B.

Police said the car swerved out of control on a gradual curve, skidded across Highway 97, jumped a ditch and smashed into the pole, bringing down a 60,000-volt line. Electrical service here was out more than four hours before workmen repaired the break.

6-Point Proposal
For Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—President Kennedy told the United Nations today the United States has "both the will and the weapons" to resist aggression and challenged the Communist world to drop the arms race in favor of a "peace race."

The president, in an address alternately tough and conciliatory, told the Soviet Union the U.S. believes a peaceful agreement is possible for the world crisis over divided Berlin. But he added that threat of force must be rejected, because "yielding to threats can only lead to war."

The president's address covered the broad spectrum of crises confronting a frightened world. He proposed a six-point disarmament plan and called for the creation of a UN peace force.

Kennedy urged the small nations to rally behind the UN and defeat Soviet efforts to impose a "troika" system of three-man control over its police power.

The troika, he said, would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis and confidence with gross confusion."

The president told the 99-nation General Assembly, in a speech carried live by radio and television, that the UN's life is at stake in the issue raised by the death in Africa of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld. He urged new strength and new roles for the UN.

The Soviet delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, listened impassively as Kennedy spoke. It did not join in the applause that dotted the speech. The first came when Kennedy attacked the Soviet troika plan.

Watching the president was his wife, Jacqueline, who sat with white-gloved hands folded across her lap.

The blue-and-gold assembly hall was packed to capacity. There were standees in the public gallery.

He proposed an approach to disarmament which would be both far-reaching and realistic:

"It is therefore our intention to challenge the Soviet Union not to an arms race but to a peace race—to advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has actually been achieved. We invite them now to go beyond agreement in principle and to reach agreement on actual plans."

Attacking the Soviet proposal to substitute a three-man executive for a single secretary-general, Kennedy urged strengthening of the charter first of all by selection of an outstanding civil servant to continue Hammarskjöld's work.

Troika Plan Would Create Anarchy

Of the Russian plan, he said:

"To install a triumvirate or any panel or rotating authority in the United Nations administrative offices would replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis, and confidence with gross confusion."

Kennedy touched on world trouble spots and solutions to the causes of cold war conflict in his first appearance before the general assembly.

In his prepared text he was most specific about halting the spread of atomic weapons. He said the new U.S. disarmament program, which may be set forth in detail in 24 hours, would include a proposal for all nations to sign a nuclear test ban treaty.

"Test-ban negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks," Kennedy said to counter Soviet insistence that discussion of a nuclear treaty be wrapped into over-all disarmament negotiations.

Kennedy advocated a special UN power to keep the peace throughout the world. He recommended that all member nations earmark special peace-keeping units in their armed forces to be on call to prevent aggression.

"He pointed to threats to peace in Laos and in Germany."

For the first time he personally emphasized in connection with a Soviet-East German pact that "the Western Allies are not concerned with any paper arrangement the Soviets wish to make with a regime of their own creation, on territory occupied by their own troops and governed by their own agents."

ARMS PLAN
HIGHLIGHTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The six steps outlined by President Kennedy in the U.S. "new disarmament proposals" are as follows:

"First, signing the test-ban treaty, by all nations. This can be done now. Test-ban negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks."

"Second, stopping the production of fissionable materials for use in weapons, and preventing their transfer to any nation now lacking nuclear weapons."

"Third, prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not now own them."

"Fourth, keeping nuclear weapons from seeding new battle grounds in . . . space."

"Fifth, gradually destroying existing nuclear weapons and converting their materials to peaceful uses; and."

"Finally, halting the unlimited testing and production of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles, and gradually destroying them as well."
